Prices Said Increasing More Slowly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Continuing declines in the cost of farm products and processed foods helped keep the increase in wholesale prices to 0.5 per cent in June, the smallest monthly rise in eight months, the Labor Department said today.

Although industrial prices rose rapidly last month, they were offset by the fourth straight monthly decrease in prices for produce and processed foods.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, suggested food prices would start upward again in July but he predicted the expected rise would be at a slower pace than the increases in 1973.

Stein also commented "The June increase of industrial prices, 2.2 per cent, was large and reveals the seriousness of the inflation with which the nation is contending."

The wholesale prices index for June was 155.7, 14.5 per cent higher than June 1973. The index for farm products and processed foods and feeds dropped 3.4 per cent.

A strong threat for the nation's economy, however, was the sharp increase in industrial commodities — a steadily accelerating figure which foreshadows consumer prices for the coming months. This index rose 2.1 per cent in June, but was 29.9 per cent higher than one year ago.

The sharp rise in the industrial commodities index was paced by metals, fuels, chemicals, and machinery and equipment.

Farm prices dropped 6.7 per cent, the department said, mostly on the weakening prices for livestock, fresh and dried vegetables, milk, live poultry, and oil seeds.

But consumer durable goods also rose, primarily because of higher prices for automobiles, household appliances and floor covering.

Although the prices of residual fuels declined, the fuels index rose 3 per cent— reflecting gains for gasoline, distillates, electric power, coal and coke, according to departmental statistics.

Earlier this week, Kenneth Rush, White House economic policy coordinator, told reporters he had hoped "that labor would exercise restraint with respect to wage increases and that business leaders would exercise restraint with regard to price increases." But Rush said the White House has not "jawboned" with any industry about increasing prices.

"Demand is bursting out all over, so to speak, and inflation is not something that you get and get over," Rush said. "Inflation is something that you fight continuously, so I would say that we have to expect it as a way of life."

Negotiators Seek To Avoid A Strike

Walkout By Social Workers Possible

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Negotiators for the County of Marin and the 160-member Social Workers Union met behind closed doors today in an attempt to head off a threatened strike, originally set for noon today.

Union representative Larry P. Gerber emerged from the closed door session at noon today saying the possibility of a strike remained in the air.

Gerber said he had received the county's final offer and was returning to the membership for a lunch-hour vote. He declined to disclose the county's last offer.

Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella said "we're at the point now that it could go either way."

The issue boiled over last night when members of the social workers unit of Local 535, Service Employees International Union, rejected the county's latest offer.

According to union members, the group agreed to demand a one-year contract providing a 10 per cent pay hike, or strike, an ultimatum delivered at 10 a.m. today to Campanella.

Meanwhile, last night, the probation workers unit of the same union accepted the county's offer. That reportedly is for a three year contract, calling for a 9.5 per cent pay hike this year and 7 per cent each of the two following years.

The county has offered much the same contract to the social workers unit, which rejected it.

It was not clear today, as the noon strike deadline approached, whether the probation workers would sign their contract or hold off and join their affiliates, the social workers, on the picket line.

Included in the social workers unit are county social workers, welfare eligibility workers and mental health workers.

Donald Sanford, acting director of the health and human services agency, said if a strike occurs, his welfare department will continue to offer essential services.

Sanford said the Community Mental Health Center in Kentfield could be the hardest hit,

Private Firm Takes Span Financial Project Apart

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Golden Gate Bridge District directors are making major expenditures without having enough information on their impact on future district finances, a group of accountants charged yesterday.

The five-year financial project drafted by the district's staff last fall was "prepared in a careless, uncoordinated and unacceptable manner," according to a report by Accountants for the Public Interest, a non-profit national organization.

Its spokesman, Marc Lumer, said the six-month evaluation of the projections was requested by the Golden Gate Association, a small group of commuters opposing the district's ferry system and recent toll hike.

Lumer conceded to newsmen that while his report faulted the assumptions used by the district in the five-year projection, he could not predict whether the projections put reserves too high or too low. The projection shows $7.1 million in reserves left in five years.

His report also acknowledged that the evaluation included "no audit or independent verification of the data submitted to us" by the district.

Lumer presented his report to the finance-auditing committee, which postponed detailed discussion of it to 10 a.m. on Aug. 8 in toll plaza offices in order to give the staff time to reply.

The district's auditor-controller, Robert Tough, recalled to newsmen that the five-year projection had been done in about two weeks because of the board's insistence on getting it quickly. "We did it on a quick and dirty basis, and took a lot of shortcuts" because of the lack of time, Tough said.

As evidence that the district makes inaccurate financial projections, Lumer noted that instead of a deficit of $624,000 after the first nine months last fiscal year, it had a surplus of $844,000. This meant the budget estimates were wrong by 235.3 per cent, Lumer declared.

The bridge board president, Stephan C. Leonoudakis, rebutted that revenues went up because of unexpected increases in interest rates and expenses were less than budgeted because of unexpected delays in building ferry terminals. "Ours is a conservative approach," Leonoudakis said.

San Francisco supervisor Peter Tamaras took sharp exception to Lumer's language, objecting "it shows a certain amount of immaturity and weakens your position immediately."

Lumer's report raised numerous criticisms, challenging assumptions that toll revenue will continue the past pattern of growing 2 per cent a year. Increased ferry revenue, for example, "might well substantially decrease bridge revenue," it said.

(District consultants recently began a year-long, $138,000 study of precisely these interrelationships of bridge tolls, transit fares and ridership.)

Lumer also objected to the staff's assumption that expenditures will increase by 7 per cent compounded each year, saying this was "an overly simplified and inadequate approach."

The report protested the assumption that revenues in the ferry division will be 40 per cent of expenditures. "This is a totally arbitrary and unacceptable method of projecting expenses," it declared, adding "the dart-board approach would likely be equally scientific, meaningful and accurate."

The committee also met behind closed doors for 20 minutes. A district attorney, David Miller, said the secret discussion was on "a personnel matter related to the security of the property of the bridge district."

Councilman Leads Sausalito Welcome For Paroled Inmate

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Terry Wing pedaled into his hometown Sausalito this morning after a 900-mile bicycle trip and 28 months in Washington's McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary.

Awaiting his arrival were city councilman Robin Sweeny, a leader in the city's effort to have him paroled since his conviction in 1970 for marijuana smuggling, and a forest of television cameras and microphones.

The 34-year-old former Sausalito welder, quiet and unassuming, patiently answered questions while astride his sleek 10-speed bike, sent to him at the federal prison by Mrs. Sweeny after it was donated by Mom's Apple Bikes in Sausalito.

Wing hopped off the prison boat at Steilacoom, Wash., June 27, to begin a journey fraught with rain, three flat tires and the loss of five of his bike's 10 speeds.

He had planned to cover 100 miles a day, but interest in his trip by persons along the way kept him below his goal and after a while he stopped keeping track. The bike ride was to be a way to get close to nature after his long stay behind bars and he spent nights camping in roadside woods.

He was to meet his wife, Donna, and two daughters, Chris, 12, and Tracy, 8, in Sausalito today but a family illness kept them at their present Burlingame home. However, he plans an ice skating date with his children tonight.

Wing, who studied solar energy and other ecology subjects in jail, said he was in shape for the trip due to regular handball playing and although he described his long ride as "beautiful," he was astonished at the hazards for bike riders among the zipping cars on narrow roads.

"I want to become involved in improving bike paths," he said, adding that he already had produced a design for a sweeping machine to keep them clean of flat-tire-creating debris.

His release last month culminated an official city effort to get him out of jail. A well-liked Sausalito figure, Wing felt his original eight-year sentence too harsh, and many city fathers agreed.

His sentence eventually was reduced to five years, making him eligible for parole. His application for release last February was denied but a second try this year was successful.

Wing said he does not expect to return to welding and will stay in Sausalito if he can find a place to live. He will be spending his next few weeks making some decisions about his future.

"There are a lot of things I want to do," he said. "I have so many choices. What I plan now is to take some time to think about them."

Nixon Believes Panel Will Vote Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon believes the House Judiciary Committee will recommend his impeachment, but doubts the full House will approve a bill of impeachment, the White House said today.

Gerald L. Warren, Nixon's deputy press secretary, said the President was aware of earlier statements by James D. St. Clair, chief Watergate lawyer, that the committee would vote a bill of impeachment.

"I believe that St. Clair is accurately portraying these accessments," Warren said. "You can assume that he has informed the President on that.

"The President agrees with the assessment."

St. Clair had told reporters earlier today that he guessed the impeachment panel would approve a recommendation that Nixon would be impeached, but that the House would not go along with it.

Later, however, St. Clair said: "It would be presumptuous for me to decide this matter for them (the committee). I've given up a long time ago figuring out what a jury would do."

When told about what Warren had said, St.Clair responded, "I don't know how he (Warren) can form any such judgoent." St.Clair said he met with Nixon during the morning and the President had not expressed such an opinion.

Nixon has been surveying the impeachment scene with congressional leaders in private sessions throughout the week. House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes said yesterday that in meeting with Nixon they had touched on the procedural processes of impeachment.

Several weeks ago, Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said that he expects the Judiciary committee to suggest Nixon's impeachment.

Earlier, St. Clair said John Dean testified that Nixon "could not possibly have had anything to do" with hush money payments, But committee Democrats said Dean had stuck to his charges of presidential misbehavior.

Generally, the Democrats on the House Judiciary said, eight hours of testimony and intensive questioning yesterday

Ehrlichman Defense Is Flayed By Judge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The judge in the Ellsberg break-in case told attorneys for John D. Ehrlichman today that their defense had been "darting and dodging around the issues."

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell made the statement in response to defense attorney Andrew C. Hall's complaints about the judge's 71-minute instructions to the six-man, six-woman jury. The jury was not in the room at the time.

The jury began deliberating about 11:30 a.m. the case against Ehrlichman and three others on charges of conspiring to violate the rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Ehrlichman also is accused of lying to the FBI and a grand jury.

In his instructions to the jury, Gesell said neither patriotism, national security or belief they were following higher orders

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Split In Tanaka's Government

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's government suffered its first major split in two years of rule today when Deputy Premier Takeo Miki resigned in a dispute threatening Tanaka's political future.

Miki

Miki, 67, told Tanaka he intended to quit because he could not follow the conservative leader's "political posture."

Tanaka accepted Miki's resignation, but did not appoint a replacement. He named Matsuhei Mori, however, as director general of the environment agency, a post Miki held along with his cabinet duties.

Miki said the vote in last Sunday's parliamentary elections "severely criticized the Liberal Democratic party and the LDP must accept it frankly."

In the election, the ruling LDP lost its hefty majority in the upper house of parliament. Political analysts viewed the election as a major setback for the conservative Tanaka.

Fierce Battle

SAIGON (UPI) — Government militia troops killed 45 Communists in a fierce attack at a Mekong Delta rice field 85 miles southwest of Saigon, the military command reported today.

The Mekong Delta fighting just three miles from Cau Ke district capital yesterday also killed seven militia troops.

In Cambodia, military sources said today Communists attacked a 14-ship supply convoy traveling up the Mekong River bound for Phnom Penh but inflicted only light damage on one vessel.

Celebration Deaths

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen killed two teen-age boys early today in a violent prelude to celebrations marking a 17th Century battle that created Protestant supremacy in Ireland.

Other extremists wounded a policeman in a Belfast gunbattle and injured 65 civilians with a bomb tossed into a downtown pub.

The bloodshed formed the backdrop to colorful parades that drew more than a million Protestants.

Britain mobilized more than 30,000 troops and police to combat violence during celebrations of the Battle of the Boyne in 1690, when Protestant King William Of Orange defeated the Roman Catholic forces of King James II.

Soviet Offer

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Soviet Union has promised to help strengthen Lebanon's defenses against Israeli reprisal raids and aid other Arab nations in getting back occupied territory, it was reported today.

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar said Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev made the offer in a message to Lebanese President Suleiman Franjieh.

A government spokesman in Beirut said the Lebanese cabinet met Wednesday to discuss the letter and "expressed satisfaction" with Brezhnev's offer. He declined, however, to reveal the details.

Policemen Strike

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Hundreds of city police officers joined striking fellow municipal workers late yesterday and walked off their jobs amid the first reports of looting, street disturbances and arson.

Police who remained on duty were spread thin as stores were looted and reports of disturbances and looting continued.

Gov. Marvin Mandel toured the city early today and said he found things "fairly well under control." He added, "We won't tolerate any violence or destruction of property."

A Coal Strike?

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Federal energy chief John Sawhill said yesterday the government has braced itself for a possible strike by the nation's soft coal miners, but he urged steps be taken to avoid such a walkout.

"It's tremendously important to our economy and our energy picture that we avoid a coal strike," said Sawhill, head of the Federal Energy Administration.

Officials of the United Mine Workers Union have threatened to strike for as long as six months if contrct demands are not met by the Bituminous Coal Operators Association before the current pact expires Nov. 12.

Shifting Planes

TAKHLI AIR BASE, Thailand (UPI) — The United States today began realigning its bomber force in Thailand, switching controversial swing-winged F111 fighter-bombers to a new base and closing down another.

Twelve F111s left the Takhli airbase, about 130 miles north of Bangkok, and flew to their new base at Korat Air Base, about 150 miles northeast of the Thai capital.

Report Details Nixon's Early Watergate Fear

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon feared the early stages of the Watergate investigation would lead to the White House and to him and told aides "we've got to cut that back," evidence released in the House Judiciary Committee impeachment inquiry shows.

A newly released tape of a presidential conversation made public in eight volumes of committee evidence yesterday showed that less than two weeks after the June 17, 1972 break-in — when the case was still limited to those originally arrested — Nixon expressed fear that more information would come out.

On the following March 17, when the investigation had intensified, Nixon expressed the fear in a second newly disclosed conversation that the probe would lead "to the White House, to the President." And he told his top aides "we've got to cut that back."

The committee released the evidence its 38 members heard in the course of six weeks of closed hearings. While there was some new information in the material, there were no major surprises.

Most of the material was a compilation of what is already on the public record about Watergate, and the majority of it relied on Senate Watergate committee testimony.

But it contained transcripts of previously undisclosed tapes and previously secret testimony from the Watergate Grand Jury that indicted seven of Nixon's one time close associates in the Watergate cover-up.

One of the eight volumes was the Nixon Watergate defense presented to the committee by his lawyer, James D. St.Clair. It was mostly directed at rebutting the charge that Nixon ordered hush money paid to Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt following a March 21, 1973, White House meeting.

The release of the material drew mixed reactions from the White House. St. Clair said he was pleased the committee released "such a large volume of material." But presidential spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler accused the committee of trying to manipulate public opinion by releasing piecemeal the impeachment evidence.

The committee will release another mass of evidence later detailing its findings in such areas as Nixon's taxes, the financing of improvements on his homes, the ITT scandal, milk contributions, wiretaps, the White House plumbers and the alleged attempt to use the Internal Revenue Service for political revenge.

One section of the report reprints a transcript indicating that on June 30, 1972 —13 days after the Watergate break-in — Nixon and his closest associates were aware — as Nixon put it — "there is always a risk" that more information involving the White House could surface.

Present were the President; his chief aide, H.R. Haldeman, and John N. Mitchell, who was quitting that day as Nixon's campaign manager. The transcript includes this passage:

Haldeman: "Well, there maybe is another facet. The longer you wait, the more risk each hour brings. You run the risk of more stuff, valid or invalid, surfacing on the Watergate caper ..."

Nixon: "Yes, that's the other thing, if someone does come out but we don't —we hope nothing will. It may not. But there's always the risk."

Haldeman: "As of now, there is no problem there. As of any moment in the future there is at least a potential problem."

Nixon: "Well, I'd cut the loss fast. I'd cut it fast. If we're going to do it, I'd cut it fast. That's my view generally speaking."

The President's fears the inquiry might lead to him were expressed in a March 17, 1973, meeting with John W. Dean III, then his counsel. This was four days before the date Nixon has said he first learned the full Watergate story in a meeting with Dean.

The committee subpoenaed the March 17 tape, but Nixon never relinquished it. Instead, the committee had a tape of a June 4, 1973, conversation between Nixon and Ziegler. In it Nixon tells Ziegler he has just listened to the March 17 tape, and he goes on to review the earlier conversation.

According to the committee report, Nixon told Ziegler that on March 17 he had expressed fear that two of his campaign aides —Hugh R. Sloan and Jeb Stuart Magruder — would bow under pressure from investigators and reveal their own involvement in the political espionage operation known as Watergate.

The committee, reporting on Nixon's recollected account, said:

"The President said that 'Magruder put the heat on and Sloan starts xxxxxxx on Haldeman.' The President said that 'we've got to cut that off, we can't have that go to Haldeman.'

"The President said that 'looking to the future there were problems and that Magruder could bring it right to Haldeman and that could bring it to the White House, to the President.'

"The President said that 'we've got to cut that back. That ought to be cut out.'"

The White House published a transcript of his March 17 conversation. But the committee said the White House cut out all references to "matters relating to Watergate." The committee did not release a full transcript of Nixon's June 4 recollections. It gave no reason for this omission.

Transcripts published previously had quoted Nixon as expressing fear that thorough investigation of Watergate could involve his closest aides, and challenge the institution of the presidency, but never before has Nixon been quoted as fearing the investigation would lead to him.

The conversation took place at a time the American people were just becoming aware of the involvement of high officials around Nixon in the Watergate episode. This was the period that the Watergate cover-up became unraveled and that Nixon aides Magruder and Dean told their stories to the grand jury.

St. Clair's defense contained no significant concessions, relied heavily on White House edited transcripts of Nixon's conversations, sought to discredit Dean, the President's chief accuser, and cited testimony by other former White House aides who maintained Nixon neither knew of the Watergate break-in in advance nor of any cover-up until Dean first informed him on March 21, 1973.

St.Clair said Dean's own testimony shows that Nixon did not order hush money for Hunt on March 21 but that the "money matter was left very much hanging at the meeting."

At the same time, St.Clair said Nixon "promptly undertook an investigation into the facts" after the meeting and instructed Dean, Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and all his other aides to cooperate fully with investigative authorities.

The report revealed that Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen, who was in charge of the overall investigation, told the grand jury that in April, 1973, Nixon employed some "heavy handed" tactics while discussing the progress of the probe.

Petersen testified Nixon made statements such as, "now you'll have to serve as White House counsel," or "you're the adviser to the President now."

Senate Kicks Out 'No-Knock' Powers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate yesterday voted to deprive federal agents of the power to make "no knock" raids on suspected drug dealers.

It also voted overwhelmingly for an amendment to cut off military and economic aid to any country that grows opium that illegally reaches U.S. markets.

The move was clearly aimed at Turkey, which recently lifted a ban on the growing of poppies from which opium and heroin are derived.

The controversial "no knock" law enacted four years ago empowered federal narcotics agents and District of Columbia police to obtain warrants to break forcibly into a suspect's home or office without announcing themselves.

An amendment repealing the authority passed yesterday 64 to 31 as part of a measure extending the life of the Drug Enforcement Administration for five years.

The legislation was sent to the House.

The antiopium amendment was sponsored by Sens. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., and James Buckley, R-N.Y., and passed 81-8.

"We provide aid and they provide drugs for our kids," said Mondale in a sometimes emotional speech.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., sponsor of the "no-knock" repealer, said the law violates "the privacy of the individual and the sanctity of his home."

Ervin said the provision's effect over the years has been "to sanction the methods of a common burglar."

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., said the law was "an invitation to official lawlessness."

Percy said narcotics agents "have sometimes used police-state tactics in making unannounced and unlawful entries of decent, law abiding citizens."

Street Sweeping Now Popular

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The civil service department yesterday said there have been applications galore for the job of street sweeper since a recent announcement that the post would pay $17,000 a year in 1975.

The city said two attorneys even applied for the job, but there aren't many openings.

The last time the department conducted an examination for street sweeper was 1970, when there were more than 800 applicants.

Beer In Belly, Pockets Empty

CINCINNATI (UPI) —A generous shout for everyone to "belly up to the bar" landed Leroy Smith in criminal court yesterday.

The owner of the Off-Beat Lounge said Smith ordered a free round of drinks Wednesday night for all the customers in the bar, but when the $14.95 tab was presented, Smith's pockets were empty.

1962 Visit Leads To Citizenship

She and her husband, Dennis Raymond Horne, are among the 21 Marin residents who were naturalized last month by the District Court in San Francisco.

Mrs. Horne was born in Surrey on the outskirts of London in 1935. As a child, she traveled with her father, a jockey, to Kenya, Africa, for the races and later moved to Dublin, Ireland.

There, she studied nursing before continuing her education in London.

Twelve years ago, she obtained a visa to work as a registered nurse in Presbyterian Medical Center in San Francisco.

She met her husband, another English emigre, in Sausalito where he was working as a carpenter and studying for his general contractor's license. They married in 1967. Horne came to America in 1964.

The couple, with their 3-year-old daughter, Fiona, now live at 15 Milano Place in San Rafael. Horne is a partner with Broughton and Horne, a contractor firm based in Mill Valley.

Whalen To Supervise Four Parks

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — William J. Whalen — for two years superintendent of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area — has been named to a newly created post as general superintendent of the four national park areas in Marin and San Francisco.

Whalen's appointment and the National Park Service decision to put the four parks under a single policy director was announced yesterday by Rep. John L. Burton, D-Fifth District.

The four parks are Point Reyes National Seashore, Muir Woods National Monument, Fort Point National Historic Site and Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

The intent of the centralization is to provide unified policy direction and more efficient management, Burton said. The operation and identity of each park will remain separate, as established by Congress.

He is a native of Pennsylvania and lived in Pittsburgh for 21 years. He has a bachelor's degree in political science from Clarion State College, Pa. and was a high school teacher in the Forest County Schools there.

Under the park service reorganization — effective immediately, the four parks will be divided into northern and southern units each with its own superintendent, and both under Whalen's direction.

Superintendent for the north unit — including Point Reyes, Muir Woods, and the recreation area north of Fort Cronkhite — will be John L. Sansing, who will also continue as superintendent for Point Reyes.

Jerry L. Schober has been appointed superintendent for the southern unit consisting of Forts Barry, Baker, and Cronkhite in Marin, and Fort Point and all the Golden Gate National Recreation Area lands in San Francisco.

Schober, 43, has been superintendent since 1970 of the National Military Park and Cemetery in Gettysburg, Pa.

Schober's southern unit office will be at Fort Mason. Sansing's office will continue to be at Point Reyes headquarters.

Student Clinic Wins Approval

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A proposal for two San Francisco dental clinics to be staffed by students from the University of California today had the approval of the regents committee on grounds and buildings.

The new clinics would provide space for 40 dental chairs and supporting facilities at an estimated cost of $3.2 million.

In addition to providing low-cost dental care to San Francisco residents, according to a university spokesman, the clinics would relieve overcrowding at the UC School of Dentistry here.

Flournoy Wants No Nixon Help

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — GOP gubernatorial candidate Houston Flournoy does not think it is important to have President Nixon's support in his campaign.

"I am not asking Republicans from outside California to campaign for me," was how he first put it here yesterday.

But newsmen noted that the President was legally a California resident and Flournoy responded: "A California voter, yes. And I hope I get his vote."

Convicts Holding Seven Hostages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two desperate convicts held off hundreds of police today from the federal courthouse cellblock where they had held seven hostages since yesterday afternoon, threatening to kill them if not given a plane to freedom.

The standoff forced Chief U.S. District Judge George Hart to move the trial of former Presidential aide John Ehrlichman to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals building.

Hart, and a host of city and federal officials who stayed at the building through the night, attempted to negotiate with the convicts who said they wanted to fly to a foreign country with at least two of their hostages.

Hart held short briefings with reporters. He said once "things look brighter" but then a short time later remarked "a small cloud has gone overhead."

An army of heavily armed police kept the huge courthouse surrounded but made no effort to move in on the steel-barred cellblock. Food and cigarettes were sent in.

The prisoners kept an open telephone line to Washington radio station WASH, which broadcast conversations with reporters, members of families, and the demands of the convicts, spoken in colorful prison language.

The two convicts, who seized eight hostages when they took over the cellblock in the courthouse about 2 p.m. yesterday, released one of them — deputy Marshal Raymond Oiller — early today to show authorities they had not harmed their prisoners.

Police said the men had a concealed gun when they seized the cellblock and later obtained other weapons from a locker. They talked with authorities, their families and those of their hostages and radio station WASH by telephone.

Authorities identified the pair as Robert Jones and Frank Gorham who led a riot at the D.C. jail in 1972 and were appealing additional 10- to 30-year prison terms for a jail break attempt following the uprising.

Along with the seven hostages, there were about 12 to 18 other federal prisoners in the cellblock area of the courthouse, which is about four blocks from the U.S. capitol.

The two convicts vowed they would they kill their hostages if police attacked.

They demanded safe passage to an airport and a plane to fly them to Venezuela "but after that we ain't saying," said Jones, who was serving a 25-year term for robbery, sodomy and another felony.

"All we want is not to hurt nobody," he said. "But we also want you to understand that we will," Jones said by telephone to WASH.

"We would have never entered into this if we wasn't willing to do some harm.

"If they try to harm us we know they are going to try to kill us so we are not going to stand in front of the firing squad and die alone. We're going to take somebody with us. If they try to harm us we're going to kill these other people."

The other convict, Gorham, 26, a Vietnam vet who was court-martialed and served time at Fort Leavenworth, held a gun against the head of the director of the D.C. Corrections Department during the 1972 jail uprising and was serving a 73-year prison term.

NIXON

failed to budge Nixon's former counsel from his charges that Nixon was involved in the Watergate cover-up, and showed him to be a credible witness with a remarkable memory.

Members of the committee said Dean refused to interpret what he thought Nixon meant during a taped conversation March 21, 1973 on E. Howard Hunt's hush money demand when he said, "For Christ's sake, get it..."

St. Clair, however, told reporters he "absolutely" was convinced Dean's testimony helped the President's defense.

St. Clair is prohibited by committee rules from discussing secret testimony, so he referred instead to news accounts of what Dean had said.

"As I read the newspapers, Mr. Dean has made it quite clear that he set the chain of events in motion that resulted in Mr. Hunt's legal fees being paid even before he saw the President (on March 21).

"So the President could not possibly have had anything to do with it," St. Clair added.

King Assassin Arguments Set

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Attorneys for James Earl Ray and for the state will have an opportunity in late August to argue any motions they may file in connection with a special evidentiary hearing for the confessed assassin.

U.S. District Judge Robert McRae Jr. said yesterday he will schedule a session to hear such arguments on either Aug. 22 or 23. He gave opposing lawyers until July 19 to file motions.

Earlier this week, the judge set Sept. 30 as the date for the special hearing to determine whether Ray is entitled to a new trial in the 1968 murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Ray contends he is entitled to a new trial because he was coerced into pleading guilty to the murder of King in return for a 99-year prison sentence.

Ministry Aide Said Wounded

Federal police said the victim, Leandro Salato, national director of the ministry's emergency section, was shot as he left his home in the western suburb of San Miguel.

There was no immediate indication of the identity of his assailants.

At least 41 persons have been killed in apparently politically motivated assassinations in the past 11 months.

Nixon Will Meet Mortgage Payment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will meet his obligation for a final $600,000 mortgage payment due Monday on his oceanfront San Clemente estate, probably either through an extension or refinancing, a White House spokesman said today.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren said "There are many ways to meet an obligation." He specifically referred to the possibility of obtaining an extension or refinancing but added the President would meet it "on time."

Teacher Reviews Given Support

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State Board of Education said yesterday local school districts should be encouraged to conduct periodic reviews of teachers and other certified personnel.

The evaluations are called for under the recently enacted Stull Act which provides viable guidelines for the establishment of personnel evaluation procedures at county and district schools.

The board, holding a two-day meeting here, unanimously recommended that the state Department of Education collect data on the excess costs involved in teacher evaluation and state funds be allocated for local training sessions in evaluation.

Gurney Court Date Scheduled

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — An Aug. 1 arraignment date was set today for Sen. Edward J. Gurney, accused of bribery and conspiracy in connection with a $400,000 political fund raised in his behalf.

Announcement of the setting of an arraignment date was made by the Justice Department in Washington. Gurney and six other defendants in the case will appear in U. S. District Court in Jacksonville.

U. S. Magistrate Joseph Hatchett said yesterday court officials were not concerned with the possibility Gurney would fail to appear.

2 Firemen Hurt In Church Blaze

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two firemen were injured last night in a three-alarm fire that roared through the parish hall of a church, causing $60,000 damage.

Fire Chief Keith Calden said about six other firemen escaped injury when the roof of the three-story building at St. John the Evangelist Episcopal Church collapsed.

Fireman John Sweeney suffered burns over the lower part of his body when he was hit by an electrical wire. Fireman James Pierce, 30, was treated for smoke inhalation.

Minor damage was reported at three nearby flats.

Estimate Rises For Orange Crop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department has reported that its estimate of the 1973-74 orange crop rose during June. The crop was estimated at 218.1 million boxes on the basis of July 1 conditions compared with a June 1 estimate of 216 million boxes.

The new forecast was 3 per cent below last year's record of 224.3 million boxes.

The Crop Reporting Board also estimated the grapefruit crop at 65 million boxes and lemons at 17.4 million boxes.

The grapefruit forecast compared with last month's estimate of 64.5 million boxes and last year's crop of 65.6 million boxes. The latest lemon estimate compared with a month-ago forecast of 17.4 million boxes and a year ago crop of 22.2 million boxes.

Airport Pollution Growing Problem

By LUCIA MOUAT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — An estimated 16 million Americans live or work near airports and are subjected to jet roar. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has predicted that the number of those affected will grow to 24 million in 10 years.

Many citizens filed suits against airport operators, but few dollars have been awarded because of the confusion surrounding the legal question of just who has jurisdiction and can be held responsible.

Solutions to the noise problem range from altering engines (to muffle their roar) to requiring pilots to change their approach and takeoff patterns.

Holdups on these are the flight safety questions involved and the dollars involved in the engine change — some $750,000, for instance, for one four-engine Boeing 707.

The price tag for a quieter fleet, including changes in flight procedures and in land purchases to attack the noise problem from every possible source, has been estimated by the EPA at between $5 billion and $22 billion.

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has let out contracts for design of retrofitted engines (lining the needle or engine casing with sound-absorbent material and/or modifying the engine fan to reduce exhaust velocity.)

One widely applauded step which the FAA did take on engine noise was to broaden the category of aircraft affected by its noise standards of the late 1960s. Previously, only new kinds of aircraft such as DC-10s and L-1011s were affected.

In a regulation issued in October, effective for most aircraft in December, 1974, new production models of such veteran aircraft as the 707 or the 727 are also affected.

The FAA has also been testing a two-segment glide approach for pilots that would keep incoming planes higher longer. The agency has been studying the possibility of using a lower flap setting on the wings combined with a reduction in engine thrust.

The airline industry has been experimenting in this area too. In California, United Air Lines has been testing two-step descents with the Boeing 727 for six months and is beginning to work with the DC-8. A spokesman reports that after a few tries pilots began to feel comfortable with the changed approach.

In general, however, pilots are wary:

"Safety has to be our overriding concern," comments a spokesman for the Airline Pilots Association. "We're taking a wait-and-see attitude."

Under the Noise Control Act of 1972 the FAA can veto specific EPA suggestions for improvement if they involve safety considerations. Some in Congress originally wanted to give the entire noise abatement responsibility to the EPA and the effort could conceivably still be revived.

As the various segments of the aviation community argue for their particular choice of noise-curbing action, however, there is one area which has been receiving very little attention. It involves land planning and development around airports, heretofore largely dismissed as a local problem.

One expert argues that the thesis of the 1952 Doolittle Report, drafted by the President's Airport Commission, is still more than valid in 1973. Stressing the need for a rational zoning policy, the report accused the government of a complete lack of leadership in airport land planning and development.

Convicts Pay Homage To Deceased Official

More than 100 San Quentin convicts filled the prison's Protestant chapel yesterday for a memorial service for a prison official many of them said "treated us like individuals."

The service for John W. Nicol, construction supervisor at San Quentin for 20 years, was the first memorial service in memory of officials held at the prison for a free man.

It was arranged by officials after many convicts asked to be allowed to attend his funeral.

Chaplain Harry W. Howard led the service, but about six convicts paid tribute to Nicol.

Many others signed a "memory book," and wrote of their feelings for Nicol, who they said treated them as individuals, rather than faceless prisoners.

Blown-up pictures of Nicol with inmates were presented to his family. After the service, Nicol's family gave licorice to be distributed to the convicts, because Nicol had often shared treats with convicts.

Nicol, 58, died unexpectedly Sunday of a heart attack.

Fire Code Amendment Goof Made

In what might be described as a $60 booboo, the San Rafael City Council has adopted an ordinance amending a nonexistent section of the municipal fire code.

The fire protection ordinance prepared by City Atty. Fred C. Robbins was adopted by the council last May to revise Title 19 of the fire code. But Title 19 is nonexistent, since it had previously been recodified to Title 4.

Robbins, in a July 3 memo — which will come to the council's attention at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall — said he prepared the amending ordinance on the assumption it would be adopted prior to the recodification.

Since it didn't, the legal oversight will cost the city about $60 because the ordinance must be republished and reenacted, identifying the amended section or Title 4 rather than Title 19.

Permit Approved For Restaurant

Novato Zoning Administrator Charles J. Linthicum approved a permit yesterday for a restaurant at 858 Grant Avenue.

Before the owner of the property, Philip Sheridan of Novato, can build the restaurant, he must first receive approval from the Novato plan review committee.

Linthicum also approved a one-year permit for Frank Baccaglio of Novato to place approximately 25,000 cubic yards of fill along the east side of South Novato Boulevard, just north of Yukon Way.

The administrator requested, however, that Baccaglio screen the area from the visibility of passing motorists.

COUNTY

especially the crisis and alcoholic detoxification centers.

Dr. Robert L. Taylor, mental health program chief, has been asked by Sanford to plan the discharge of as many mental health patients as feasible and to consider the possibility of shifting the more seriously ill patients to other facilities in the county and to Napa State Hospital.

"We'll have to wait and see if they decide to hit the bricks and how many employees walk out," Sanford said.

The possibility of a strike was the main topic of conversation today among welfare and probation department employees. One employee said the departments "are really buzzing."

A spokesman for the Marin Association of Public Employees, the county's largest employee group, said no member would be asked to honor a union picket line at Civic Center.

The association recently signed a three-year contract for its approximately 900 Civic Center members.

Relations between the union and association have been strained for years, with the association claiming the union has built its membership by raiding the association.

Currently, all county bargaining units have signed three-year contracts except Local 535 and the public health nurses, represented by the California Nurses Association.

Copper Producers In Contract Talks

PHOENIX (UPI) — All copper companies were engaged in additional contract negotiations today as the Sunday deadline approached.

The copper producers, with more than 30,000 workers nationwide, have been talking with union negotiators under a two-week extension of the old contract. That extension ends Sunday and union officials have indicated the workers do not favor another extension.

JURY

He said "proper concerns of the President of the United States and others in high office would not have justified" the entry into Fielding's office without a search warrant.

In response to Hall's objections, Gesell said, "There is no theory in this case. His case has been darting and dodging around the issues, but there was no coherent statement in Mr. (Ehrlichman attorney William) Frates' closing argument."

Hall objected that some of Gesell's instructions about Ehrlichman had been "overly broad." Hall said Gesell had overemphasized the government's contention about Ehrlichman's "consciousness of guilt" and that the judge had not stated that immunity for key witnesses was initiated by the prosecution.

"Is there anything you agree with in the instructions, Mr. Hall?" asked the silver-haired Gesell, his face flushing.

"I avoided charging his defense because I would have hurt him," Gesell said, adding that if Ehrlichman's lawyers had a case, "you didn't get it across to the court."

In a parting thrust, Hall asked Gesell to explain to the jury that his "facial expressions and demeanor" did not indicate his feelings about the evidence in the case.

In his charge to the jury, Gesell, as he had done in pretrial proceedings, ruled that national security was not a defense.

"Ignorance of the law is no excuse," Gesell said. "The defendant can't escape prosecution simply because he feels it (what he did) was justified by patriotism, national security, the need to create an unfavorable press image, or because he thought his superiors had authorized him to suspend the Constitution without a lawful warrant.

"Some may have done it for political reasons, others thought the security of the country was at stake, others wanted to produce results whatever the means. It makes no difference."

In a passing reference to Watergate, Gesell told the jury that in their deliberations, "you must put anything you have heard about Watergate out of your mind."

Reforms Eyed On Role Of Vice President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., said yesterday the nation should give serious consideration to abolishing the post of vice president.

Mrs. Green, who will retire from Congress at the end of her current term, is drafting the report of a group of Democrats who have been studying possible reforms in the method used by the party to pick its vice presidential nominee.

She said the report will not suggest doing away with the office but will recommend a long range reassessment of the post.

Security Enacted In Tidal Lock Area

The Bel Marin Keys Community Services District board last night made it illegal for any person to be in the vicinity of the new tidal lock between midnight and sunrise and banned all persons under 16 at any time unless accompanied by an adult.

The two amendments to the district's navigational locks ordinance, to take effect upon posting at the community center, are intended to curb vandalism.

Braun was a native of Colorado. He began work with Western Union 50 years ago, and moved to San Francisco 35 years ago to work with the office there.

He retired five years ago from his post as manager of Western Union's audit center in San Francisco. Upon retirement, he moved from the city to join his sister Elsie M. Braun at her home in Greenbrae.

Braun was a member of San Francisco Lodge No. 3 Beloved Protectorate Order of Elks.

Slot Pool Tables To Be Taxed

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — The Alabama Supreme Court ruled yesterday that a table that looks like a pool table and is used for playing pool will be taxed as a pool table even though it might have a coin slot.

The license fee on a pool table is $25, but only $8 on a coin-operated machine.

The Franco Novelty Co. said since the tables had coin slots where patrons deposited coins in order to play, the tables were coin-operated machines.

Justice James Faulkner, writing the majority opinion, said: "The state counters this by saying that the Court of Appeals of Alabama has held that a coin-operated toilet is not a slot machine."

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

STREAKING FOR NUDITY — Los Angeles City Councilmen in the midst of a debate over allowing nude beaches, are streaked by Robert Odel, the same man who dashed past David Niven at the Academy Award Show last April. Doffing his jump suit and leaping a barrier at yesterday's meeting, Odel raised his hands in a "V" for victory and was promptly arrested.

Council Streaked; Nude Beach Killed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The city council was in the midst of backing down on a plan for nude beaches yesterday when a naked man strolled before them, stepped up to the police chief and asked: "Is this lewd?"

It was Robert Opel, 33, the same man who flashed naked past David Niven and a national television audience at the Academy Award ceremonies.

He was arrested for disturbing a public meeting and the council went on to vote 12-1 against allowing nude sunbathing on city-owned beaches.

The council gave preliminary approval on June 28, by a 9-4 vote, to a proposal to set up legal nude beaches, or "optional clothing zones," to deal with a growing controversy over nude sunbathing, particularly on the beach at Venice, which draws many young persons.

The council had hoped then to confine the nudists to certain areas.

The proposal drew protests from Police Chief Edward M. Davis, who said it would encourage crime, and Catholic Cardinal Timothy Manning, who called it an encouragement to immorality.

Councilmen said calls and letters from constituents ran overwhelmingly against the proposal.

Gasps and hoots erupted from the capacity audience of 400 when Opel unzipped a jump suit, leaped a barrier between onlookers and council members and with his arms raised in a "V for Victory" gesture, strode up behind Davis, who was there to testify against the proposal.

The police chief "turned away," Opel said later. "It appeared he was not enjoying it."

"Is this what you want?" a woman in the audience screamed at the council members.

Councilwoman Pat Russell, who represents the Venice area, was speaking against the measure, saying it would keep families with young children off the beaches, when Opel appeared.

The lone vote for the nude zones was cast by Councilman David Cunningham, who said "I don't know of any nudity that killed anyone," and protested the ban was a "motherhood and apple pie" measure when the council should be worrying about crimes of violence.

Fatal Fire Leads To Arson Charge

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UPI) — A 22-year-old Greenwich, Conn., man has been arrested on charges of setting a fire that swept a crowded discotheque on the New York-Connecticut border, killing 24 persons, it was announced today.

Peter Leonard, arrested last night, is charged with first degree arson and third degree larceny in a warrant issued by Bridgeport Superior Court.

He is charged with setting fire to a bowling alley adjacent to Gulliver's Discotheque in Port Chester, N.Y., June 30.

The fire broke out about 1 a.m. in the basement of the building next door to the crowded discotheque, fire officials said. In addition to the bowling alley, the adjacent building ravaged by the fire also housed a barber shop and a clothing store.

The flames spread rapidly throughout the complex, spilling thick black smoke across the discotheque's dance floor, where a crowd of young people were dancing to a rock band. In a panicked rush, they jammed the exit. About 30 were injured. All of the dead were young.

In New York, Westchester County District Attorney Carl Bergari scheduled a news conference in his office in White Plains this morning to discuss the arrest.

Estimates of the number of patrons at Gulliver's at the time ranged from 200, given by the owners; 300 to 400, according to fire officials; and 700-800, given by some survivors.

Most of the victims' bodies were found beneath the rubble of the dance floor, which was on a level lower than the club's dining room.

Identification of the victims' bodies was hampered by the fact many of the patrons of Gulliver's apparently were under the local legal drinking age—18 years—and had forged identification cards to admit them to the club.

Survivors said dancers were seeking to escape the dance area when the lights suddenly went out and panic ensued.

Thick black smoke belched into the club, and many couples on the dance floor said the smoke was so heavy they could not find their way out.

Before last night's arrest, Port Chester Mayor Joseph Dzaluk had accused Greenwich officials of making no inspections of the bowling alley in the last decade.

Damage suits totalling more than $12 million have been filed by families of several victims of the fire who claim negligence on the part of Port Chester officials in inspection of the discotheque.

SAN FRANCISCO — Christine S. Follestad, 2 Corte Del Bayo, Larkspur, has applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for a permit to build a ramp and floating dock at her home on the east bank of Larkspur Creek, a tributary of Corte Madera Creek.

The proposed ramp would be 28 feet eight inches and the dock would be 24 feet by seven feet, according to Col. J. L. Lammie, district engineer of the corps. Both would be all wood except for concrete footing on shore.

Persons wishing to comment on or object to the project should do so in writing before Aug. 10 to the corps at 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, 94102.

Has Patty Escaped To Guatemala?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst and two Symibionese Liberation Army members may have fled to Guatemala to contact radical underground organizations, a television station reported yesterday.

Marilyn Baker, a reporter for KQED-TV, said the fugitives, Miss Hearst, William and Emily Harris, went to the Central American country to establish new identities, enabling them to return to an underground existence in the United States.

Police think a terrorist group in Guatemala provided the trio with names of a "national network of underground organizations" in the United States she said.

The FBI declined comment on the report.

Miss Baker said police "have strong, solid evidence" the three have been and might still be in the country she described as a haven for terrorists.

Miss Hearst, daughter of newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst, was kidnaped by the SLA in February in Berkeley. Later via tape recorded message, she renounced her family and joined her captors' terrorist group.

In April, six SLA members died in a shootout with Los Angeles police.

Miss Baker said some police intelligence officers think Miss Hearst and the Harrises returned to the Oakland area, only a few miles from the original kidnaping.

The three were wanted on federal charges, including robbery.

Bank Robbers Caught By New Dye Device

BOSTON (UPI) — Two Boston area banks yesterday used new devices for thwarting robberies. They were so successful that three of six suspects were captured, about $19,000 in loot was recovered and the robbers were left — quite literally —in the red.

Police in Chelsea said three men armed with pistols held up the Commonwealth Bank & Trust Co., making off with more than $6,500 stuffed in a money bag. But also inside the bank was the new device, which operates by remote control.

Once the robbers were outside, a bank official activated the device, which exploded red dye over the money and emitted a strong tear gas odor.

Police said they were notified by a pedestrian that three men were seen running into an apartment building near the bank. Officers entered the building and Lt. Thomas Keating said the odor in the apartment nearly overwhelmed them.

"One of the guys was trying to wash the money off in a bathtub," said Keating. The other two were found hiding under a bed.

The suspects were identified as Steven McMaster, 18, of Charlestown, Robert Paladino, 17, who lived in the apartment, and a 15-year-old juvenile.

The other holdup was staged at the People's Savings Bank in Brockton, where a similar device was placed in bags with the money. However, that device emitted red smoke when triggered and filled the getaway car while the three men were fleeing.

Police in Brockton said the robbers left the money, more than $10,000, behind and fled in two other cars, believed stolen.

Buses serving routes 2, 4, 8, 20, 24, 40 and 64 will be affected by the move.

10-Acre Grass Fire Contained

A grass fire off East Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Larkspur opposite the West gate of San Quentin prison burned 10 acres of state property yesterday.

Five units from the Larkspur and two from the San Quentin fire departments responded to the call at 4:11 p.m. and contained the blaze within a half-hour.

There was no injury and at no time was any building threatened. It took four hours for the firemen to complete mopup operations because of the extensive area involved.

Cause of the blaze was undetermined.

Principal's Widow Wins $250,000 In Death Suit

The widow of former Mill Valley School Principal Glenn Skelton has won a $250,000 out-of-court settlement against the foundation that operates Kaiser Hospitals.

Under the settlement, approved last week by Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court, Catherine Skelton will receive $98,617 and each of her four children will get $11,602. The rest of the money will go for attorney's fees and costs.

Skelton died Nov. 18, 1970, of a gangrene infection. The 40-year-old educator was principal of Mill Valley's Edna Maguire School.

His widow filed a $900,000 wrongful death suit the following June, claiming doctors at Kaiser's San Francisco hospital were negligent in diagnosing and treating her husband.

The suit charged the doctors failed to detect a bowel obstruction from which Skelton suffered and prescribed medicine which made his condition worse.

When the ailment finally was diagnosed, the doctors operated, but during that operation they tore Skelton's intestine, giving rise to an infection that developed into gangrene and finally killed him, according to the suit.

L. G. Von Schottenstein, the San Francisco attorney who handled the case, received $96,684 in fees.

Gunpowder Snoop Kit Is Invented

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — A Penn State chemist has developed a portable kit that makes gunpowder residue as detectable as grease.

Dr. K. L. Pillay said police officers who apply the kit's cellulose film to the hands of a suspect in a shooting incident can determine within two minutes if the suspect fired a gun.

Miller Fan May Have Found Plane

LONDON (UPI) — A Glenn Miller fan said today he had discovered in the English Channel what could be the wreck of a U.S. Air Force plane in which the famed swing-era bandleader disappeared nearly 30 years ago.

John Edwards, an amateur flier and Miller fan, showed newsmen what he said was a sonar underwater photograph of wreckage similar to Miller's plane. It lay under 200 feet of water about 12-½ miles southeast of the coastal town of Dymchurch, he said.

He said his salvage crews would seek to positively identify the wreck.

Miller, America's top bandleader at the time, disappeared with two other persons on a flight to France after takeoff from England in low cloud and heavy fog Dec. 15, 1944.

Kentfield Board To Ask New Bus Bids

Startled by bus service bids 50 per cent higher than last year, the Kentfield School District board last night called for new ones.

Supt. Eugene C. Peters said trustees unanimously rejected three bids ranging from $12,612 to $13,904 after they were told the district paid only $8,000 for the same service last school year. Bidders were Patchetts Transportation Co. of Richmond, Mark IV Bus Co. of San Rafael, and Martinez Bus Co. of Martinez.

The bus companies blamed the higher bids on higher wages, doubling costs of fuel and tires and increased cost of all other equipment, but trustees "didn't buy that argument," and told Peters to seek new bids, he said.

The Kentfield School District Board also:

BUDGET — Adopted a publication budget of $2,039,389 for 1974-75, up $374,219 from this year's spending. It includes 8.2 per cent raises given to teachers and classified employees but Peters said any raises for administrators will be added at the final budget hearing Aug. 6. The publication budget would require a tax rate of $3.21 per $100 assessed valuation, a 24-cent increase from this year's rate.

ORGANIZATION — Elected Gloria Riccardi president, Dr. Royce T. Truex clerk and Winifred Setakrian trustee representative and delegate to the Marin County School Boards Association.

TEACHER — Hired Gayle Koren as a half-time teacher at A. G. Bacich School for $5,700.

ASSOCIATION — Agreed to join the California School Boards Association for 1974-75 at a cost of $460.

CLOSED — Met in closed session to discuss salary negotiations and upheld the firing of a district janitor by Peters.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Aug. 6 at 8 p.m. in Bacich School for a public hearing on the proposed 1974-75 budget.

Belvedere Police Association To Take Pay Stand To Public

In the next few days Belvedere police will take their wage dispute with city officials to the community's residents.

The Belvedere Police Officers Association is sending out approximately 800 letters telling of the city's refusal to negotiate further on the salary question and asking for the residents' support.

"We are asking the people to let the city council know if they are behind us," said an association spokesman.

Belvedere's five officers are asking for a 13.6 per cent salary increase and the city is offering 8.6 per cent.

On July 3, after two months of negotiations, City Mgr. William L. Cavalli "gave us an ultimatum, saying we must accept the city offer and then refused to negotiate further," the spokesman said.

The officers believe the wage hike they are seeking, which totals about 16 per cent with fringe benefits included, is necessary to match the rising costs of living and bring their salaries into line with those of other policemen in the county.

"I would like to see us the best paid in the county because I believe we are the best police department," the spokesman said. "Right now our chief is the third best paid in the county. Sergeants in nine other county departments are paid more than our sergeant. And patrolman in seven other cities in Marin receive more salaries than we do."

He said Belvedere is well able to meet the officers' pay requests because "the city's revenue has increased 17 per cent over last year."

Chief John W. Jaeger, who received a 6 per cent wage increase for 1974-75, is a member of the association but has asked to remain out of the current dispute since he is an administrator.

City Manager Cavalli is on vacation and could not be reached for comment. He will return Monday.

Women Have Say On

NEW YORK (AP) — There are more than four million recreational vehicles currently owned in the United States and, according to Rand McNally's newly poublished "Recreational Vehicle Handbook," 60 per cent of the rental and purchase decisions about such vehicles are made by women.

Meanwhile, the city council last night approved 8.6 per cent salary hikes for the city clerk, building inspector and four-man public works department.

City Clerk Molly Holsinger said raises for the city manager and city attorney will be set at a later date.

A proposal that the city buy a Belvedere mansion for a recreation center brought out about 15 neighbors who protested the plan, Mrs. Holsinger said.

A group of citizens, including Mayor David E. Bordon and councilman Thomas Price has put a down payment on the home, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fleming Jr. The house, which was built as a private golf clubhouse in 1914 is on 1.12 acres near the intersection of Britton Lane and Golden Gate Avenue.

The council, which has never been officially notified of the plan, took no action on the matter. But councilmen promised the concerned residents they will be notified if and when the proposal comes before the council.

If the city decides it wants the house, the citizens group will go ahead with the purchase and the city could then buy it back from them.

Funding Suggested For Two Park Areas

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission last night recommended two park areas in the city for first consideration in allocation of more than $100,000 coming to the city from a state bond issue.

The commission called for acquisition of the 17-acre Purdy property next to Pickleweed Park in the canal area, and renovation and acquisition of properties near Albert Park. No costs were estimated.

The commission recommendation will go to the city council at its meeting Monday night.

The city will receive $101,542 from the Proposition I bond funding for future parks and recreation. Money is divided among towns and cities on the basis of population.

The commission also set August 7 for an all-day tour by commission members of the city's open space and park areas.

Family Lucky To Have Spare Car To Commute

WINDER, Ga. (UPI) — Losing the use of your car to some baby birds is not so inconvenient, if you have a spare, says Mrs. Ruth O'Kelley.

Her husband, Robert L. O'Kelley Jr., has been using her car to commute 80 miles daily to his job in Atlanta because a mother wren picked his car as a nesting spot.

The wren built her nest in the wiring behind a headlight of O'Kelley's 1968 Ford Torino. At first, it didn't bother him because he doubted the eggs would hatch.

Marshland Owner Heerdt Files $10 Million Suit

Corte Madera marshland owner William J. Heerdt in a $10 million inverse condemnation suit yesterday accused the Golden Gate Bridge District of blocking his use of his land.

Heerdt's Marin Superior Court action claimed the district indicated last October that it needed part of his 90-plus acres for an easement, but then failed to follow through.

In that month, the district declared itself interested in buying the Domenic Muzzi property as a spoils site for its Larkspur ferry terminal and said it would need an easement across adjacent property for a pipeline.

Though the district didn't specify Heerdt's land, attorney Joseph L. Bortin said his client's property lies between the terminal site and the Muzzi land.

The district action has blocked him from selling or developing his land, Heerdt claimed, and thus owes him $10 million.

Treasury officials estimate that a change from copper to aluminum cents will save at least $40 million a year.

DREAM GARDENS — Youthful members of the "green thumb" set prepare their ideal gardens which will be part of the exhibits in the fair's Hall of Plants. In addition to flowers and shrubs, the young gardeners used a variety of stone and brick, lattices, statues and fences to create the gardens of their dreams.

Psychologist Is Amazed At Survival

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A psychologist says he was surprised at the ability of two black inmates to survive what they claim are brutal and dehumanizing conditions at the San Quentin Prison adjustment center.

Dr. Thomas Hilliard, chairman of the National Association of Black Psychologists, testified yesterday in U.S. District Court in a suit brought by six inmates who claim the center constitutes cruel and unusual punishment.

Hilliard said he examined prisoners Fleeta Drumgo, 28, and David Johnson, 26.

"I was personally surprised at their mental strength and their resiliency under those conditions," Hilliard said.

He was asked to account for their stable mental condition and said blacks "have a better ability to cope with stress than do my white clients."

"Black people, being born out of a history of survival, have a fantastic ability to deal with oppression," he said.

Sausalito Willing To Buy Land For Housing Fish Wholesaler

The City of Sausalito is willing to pay to save its commercial fishing industry, the city council decided last night.

Councilmen agreed to ask the federal General Services Administration to give the city the south pier on the Army Corps of Engineers property, which was recently declared surplus.

Part of the property would be used by Ocean Traders, Sausalito's fish wholesaler. The firm currently occupies the north pier on the corps land, but will have to move when the corps of engineers abandons the south pier and moves its operation to the northern pier, pushing out the fishermen.

The federal government will give the property away free if it is used for recreational purposes. The council said it would pay for the portion of the pier used by Ocean Traders through a lease agreement with the firm, according to City Clerk Janet Tracy.

The rest of the pier and some surrounding property would be used for public recreation, cultural and park facilities and maritime education facilities, councilmen agreed.

Council members failed to reach agreement on whether to ask citizens for a $1.5 million "blank check" to acquire open space or whether to specify parcels for purchase by the city in an open-space bond measure planned for the November ballot.

Councilmen Robin Sweeny and Violeta Autumn will study the matter further and present a recommendation to the full council on Tuesday.

Board Eyes Big Budget At Inverness

The Inverness Public Utilities District board will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the firehouse to adopt what will probably be the largest budget in its history, according to director George Ludy, who said the exact amount will be determined at that meeting.

The largest expenditure will be the purchase of a new fire engine to replace one "that was here when the Indians got here," Ludy said.

The purchase will require raising the tax rate by about six cents from last year's figures of 30.75 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The maximum rate permitted is 37.75 cents, Ludy said.

Last year's budget totaled $12,360, Ludy said, with about $3000 of that held in anticipation of this year's fire truck purchase.

The truck — to be bought in a plan under which the federal government pays for the chassis and Inverness equips it with fire-fighting gear — should cost the district about $11,000.

Plans No Contest

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Marvin Mandel said today he will not contest the divorce action filed by his wife, Barbara, according to papers filed in Baltimore City Circuit Court.

Spending About Same For Nicasio Schools

The Nicasio School District board yesterday adopted a $62,746 budget for 1974-75, relatively unchanged from the district's current $62,000 spending plan.

The budget is $6,646 higher than the preliminary budget approved in May, according to Beverly Alberigi, district secretary-bookkeeper. The district had a larger ending balance than expected at the end of the fiscal year and this accounts for the increase, she said.

The budget includes $31,952 in teacher salaries, $4,096 in non-teaching salaries, $3,200 in teacher benefits, and $3,950 in books, supplies and equipment.

The district's current tax rate is $1.71 per $100 of assessed valuation. Mrs. Alberigi said the district cannot estimate its 1974-75 rate until it obtains its assessed valuation figures from the county.

But since assessed valuation throughout the county has increased over last year's, the rate should be lower than this year's, she said.

Sausalito Issues Warning On Bank Examiner Scheme

Sausalito police yesterday issued a warning to residents to be aware of a phony bank examiner scheme used this week in an unsuccessful attempt to bilk an elderly woman out of $3,000.

The swindle, a variation of the "pigeon drop," has been operated successfully in San Francisco several times in recent weeks, according to Detective William Palmini.

Palmini explained the operation this way:

The swindler, usually a man, telephones the victim, saying he is a bank examiner and that someone has illegally withdrawn a large sum of money from their account.

He offers a reward if the victim will help catch the thief. He instructs the victim to withdraw money, usually between $2,500 and $3,000, from the bank and offers assurances that bank investigators will be secretly watching the transaction.

Once the victim is outside the bank, the swindler displays phony identification, takes the money and disappears.

The scheme is tried most often on elderly persons, Palmini said. He urged residents and bank employees to notify police if they suspect the swindle is being worked.

Schloegel Is Jailed In Sonoma

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Albert Joseph Schloegel, 24, has been ordered to serve a six-month term in Sonoma County Jail for violating probation.

The Rohnert Park resident, an unsuccessful candidate in the June 5 election for the Republican Ninth Assembly District nomination, was cited by Rohnert Park Police for operating a business without a state license.

Schloegel is the owner and director of A & R consultants, which he has described as a business consulting firm.

Rohnert Park Police acted after citizens complained that Schloegel carried a gun and handcuffs in his car. A search on June 12 revealed a cap pistol, billy club and bayonet.

Schloegel was placed on probation by the Municipal Court after being convicted in 1972 of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The terms of his probation stipulated that he was not to carry uniforms or equipment which might cause someone to believe he was a police officer.

Cheapest Item: Coffee Cups At $168 Each

STOKE ON TRENT, England (UPI) — Phyllis Morrow, the wife of a Houston oil magnate, picked up her new 225-piece bone china dinner service yesterday. It cost $48,000.

The firm that made it said it was the most expensive ever produced. The cheapest items are the coffee cups, which cost $168 apiece. The pieces are made of raised gold and white enamel, and took four craftsmen three years to complete.

Mrs. Morrow, 30, and her husband, multimillionaire oil producer Thomas Morrow, 53, visited the Minton pottery with their children Marc, 9, and Thomas, 5.

"It's a lot of money to pay, but Phyllis is hard to please and knows exactly what she wants," said Morrow.

WILD ANIMAL ACT

It's a rare polar bear that will stand still for having his nose tickled with a vacuum cleaner, especially in the midday heat of a Rohnert Park parking lot. Is Larry Martini, owner of the Santa Rosa Cigarette Service, breaking in a new animal act? No, he's just finished scrubbing down his four stuffed trophies — bagged over many years of Alaska big game hunting — and is giving them a quick blow-dry to fluff them up again. They are only part of a large collection of stuffed game in the trophy room of his office at 5150 Commerce Boulevard.

San Anselmo Schools To Spend Less

The San Anselmo School District Board last night approved a $2,475,257 publication budget for 1974-75, down slightly from this year's $2,517,357 figure.

The spending program is expected to require a tax rate of $3.43 per $100 of assessed valuation, down one cent from this year's rate.

The budget, which includes funds for a 7.1 per cent salary hike for classified personnel but no funds for teacher or administrative employee pay hikes, will come up for final adoption at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 6.

Trustees, noting that the budget cuts back spending for instructional equipment, consultant fees and other matters, informally agreed to consolidate a tax rate election with next March's school board elections, according to Supt. Frank R. Elliott.

The tax election, aimed at hiking per-pupil spending under SB 90, is a "necessity," Elliott said.

Elliott noted that a proposal for a 20-cent tax hike was defeated at the polls in June, but said the district is in such a financial crunch it must try again.

He said trustees have not yet discussed how much of a hike the district should seek.

In other action last night, the board elected John Hulpke president, and said trustee Millard R. Morgan will serve as clerk, Oliver L. Harle as trustee representative, and Judith L. Vallas as county school board representative.

The board next meets at 7:30 p.m. July 25.

Manpower Talks

The Marin City Community Services District board will discuss the district's Manpower Program at a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Manzanita Center, according to Thelma Duncan, secretary.

Reservation Sprayed For Bubonic Plague

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — The Indian Health Service is trying to prevent a recurrence of bubonic plague on the sprawling Navajo reservation that takes up part of western New Mexico and three other states, state officials said.

The spraying of insecticide to kill plague-carrying fleas and a state-wide survey of the possible spread of the plague followed the death last month of a 12-year-old Navajo girl who caught the disease.

Neil S. Weber of the State Environmental Improvement Agency's insect and rodent control section said yesterday the girl apparently picked up the plague from fleas on a sheep dog.

"They (Indian health officials) are dusting the burrows of prairie dogs in the area and using bait boxes to dust other small rodents in the area," Weber said.

The dusting operation brings the animals into contact with a flea killing insecticide, he said, but there was still a chance for more cases on the reservation.

"We've got a lot of problems out there," Weber said. "There are a lot of sheep dogs roaming the area, and sometimes the prairie dogs themselves serve as a food source for the Navajos."

Weber said the probable source of the disease which the girl contacted was dead pack rats near the family's home in Mentmore, just west of Gallup.

"There was an indication that there was a large die off of the pack rats from the plague," he said. "Because they no longer had their host, the fleas from the dead rats moved onto other animals, including the sheep dogs.

"One of the fleas from the sheep dogs apparently hopped onto the girl when she was at a sheep camp."

The plague is endemic to New Mexico, and about 35 cases have been reported in the past 25 years. The girl's death was the eighth known fatality in the state from the disease and the first since 1965.

Hartford Paper Calls For Nixon To Be Impeached

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The Hartford Courant today called for the impeachment of President Nixon in its lead editorial.

"President Nixon deserves to be impeached and tried," the newspaper said in an editorial entitled "Keep Awake, America."

"Only in this way can the question of his culpability or non-culpability be determined.

"In the name of fairness, and for the sake of the people of the United States, let's get on with definitive proceedings, and begin restoring this nation to the world of the living," the editors wrote.

An Indian Nuclear Test Try Is Told

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said today he has received information that India made an unsuccessful attempt to explode a second nuclear device last February and that the United States has withheld public disclosure of the test.

Jackson said he learned of the test "just recently" and that it underscored fears that the United States is not doing all that it can to prevent nuclear proliferation.

Jackson made the statement while questioning John Erlewine, general manager of the Atomic Energy Commission, during a Senate international finance subcommittee hearing on exporting nuclear materials and technology.

Erlewine said he knew nothing about the Indian test. Jackson said that "if he didn't he should have."

Kissinger Plans New Negotiations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Setting aside his threat to resign, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger intends to plunge into a series of high consultations here in July and August with Jordan, Syria, Egypt and Israel in the hope of promoting an eventual Middle East peace settlement.

A high State Department official said it would be a setback for American diplomacy in the Middle East and elsewhere if Kissinger stepped down.

He indicated Kissinger does not view himself as indispensable but has no immediate intention of resigning, despite his threat last month to do so if he were not fully exonerated of charges he ordered the wiretapping of aides when he served in the White House.

Kissinger made that threat in Salzburg, Austria, at the beginning of President Nixon's Middle East trip last month.

The official, who asked not to be identified, said that the United States is highly satisfied with the way Syria, Egypt and Israel have executed the military disengagement agreements which Kissinger achieved through his Middle East shuttle diplomacy.

Quakeproofing Bill For Schools Signed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday signed legislation placing a $150 million bond act to make schools earthquake safe on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

The measure (AB3236), called the School Building Aid and Earthquake Reconstruction and Replacement Bond Law of 1974, was authored by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose.

If approved by the voters, the $150 million would be available for reconstruction or replacement of unsafe school buildings.

Reagan also announced the signing of 74 other separate pieces of legislation. Included were:

(AB2816) — Permits local authorities to place dual speed limit, speed advisory and mileage traffic signs in both English and metric units effective Jan. 1. By Assemblyman Howard L. Berman, DBeverly Hills.

(AB2624) — Appropriates $2.5 million to increase Cal-Vet educational benefits from $50 per month to $100 per month. It is intended to provide financial assistance to Vietnam veterans after expiration of federal education benefits. By Assemblyman Jack R. Fenson, D-Montebello.

(AB914) — Allows candidates seeking public office to substitute petitions with signatures of registered voters for filing fees up to $925. By Assemblyman Ray Gonzales, D-Bakersfield.

(AB3597) — Allows any local agency—without voter approval—to raise its maximum property tax rate in 1974-75 to meet higher electrical costs for street and highway lights. By Assemblyman William A. Craven, R-Oceanside.

(SB1575) — Lowers the minimum age when a trainable mentally retarded child can be enrolled in a special education class from age 5 to 3. By Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Aptos.

(AB3240) — Requires lobster traps to be emptied not less than every 96 hours, rather than every 48 hours. By Assemblyman W. Don MacGillivray, R-Santa Barbara.

(SB1643) — Deletes the restriction that licenses only can be renewed six months or less before they expire. By Sen. Fred W. Marler Jr., R-Redding.

Reagan Vetoes Bill To Give Ex-Felons Vote

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Citing "major defects" in the bill, Gov. Ronald Reagan has vetoed part of a legislative package aimed at granting all ex-felons in California the right to vote.

The measure (AB1128) was a companion bill to a proposed constitutional amendment (ACA38) which will be on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

Voters will decide in the election if they want to remove constitutional provisions which allow counties to bar ex-felons from voting. The vetoed bill would have made changes in statutory law to conform with a recent state Supreme Court decision. The decision held that equal protection of the laws requires that ex-felons be allowed to vote.

Both measures were authored by Assemblyman Julian Dixon, D-Los Angeles.

In his veto message yesterday, Reagan noted the California court decision has since been overturned by the U.S. Supreme Court, which ruled that ex-felons need not be given voting rights.

The governor also said technical problems in the bill would have unwittingly meant the repeal of the state's new election provision allowing women to register as "Ms."

Inflation Hits Italy Lottery

ROME (UPI) — Inflation in Italy has spread to the lottery field, the government announced today.

The Finance Ministry said the price of tickets in any of Italy's four annual stateoperated lotteries has been raised from from 75 cents to $1.52. At the same time, top prize in each lottery has been raised from $230,000 to $307,000.

The ministry blamed the raise on increased costs and on demands by ticket vendors.

Valley Birthplace Of Cahin Stores

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A number of large retail store chains were born here on the banks of the Mississippi River.

Among the chains which first established stores in Memphis were S. H. Kress & Co., John G. McCrory dime stores and S. S. Kresge stores.

Marin Trio Honored By Patrol For Heroism At Accident Site

Honored in ceremonies at the patrol's Corte Madera office were Hubert J. Huling of Corte Madera and Faye Tregenza and Mark Cain, both of San Rafael.

On April 13, 1974 the three stopped at a collision on Highway 101 near Tiburon and removed the injured driver from his burning vehicle. They also attempted, unsuccessfully, to revive the motorist with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and external heart massage.

"In view of your unhesitating action in the face of fire and imminent danger of the gas tank exploding, the California Highway patrol recognizes your heroic actions," reads the certificate awarded to each.

"These three people willingly became involved and risked their lives in an effort to save another," said a highway patrol spokesman.

Sea Ranch Owners Lose Bid In Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge has denied an appeal by beach property owners who say California coastal development laws are unconstitutional.

U. S. District Court Judge Spencer Williams refused yesterday to interfere with a previous San Francisco Superior Court action in denying a temporary restraining order sought by the Sea Ranch Association and 10 lot owners in the Sonoma County coastal development.

The petitioners wanted the court to block the California Coastal Conservation Commission from obeying a state court order until a three-judge federal court has decided the constitutionality of certain sections of the California Coastal Zone Conservation Act of 1972.

The Sea Ranch Association and lot owners challenged the requirement that permit holders post a $1,500 deposit to be forfeited if Sea Ranch refuses to abide by the conditions or restrictions imposed by the commission.

The conditions include thinning of trees to expose public views of the coast line from Shoreline Highway, granting public access across Sea Ranch property to reach publicly owned beaches and recreation areas, not allowing structures to interfere with the line of sight from the ocean to the highway and monitoring of septic tank systems to insure water quality.

The Natural Resources Defense Council and other conservationist groups petitioned the superior court claiming the commission did not investigate to the fullest extent possible allegedly potential adverse environmental effects which could result from granting of the building permits and development of the subdivision.

Attorney Malcom Misuraca of Santa Rosa unsuccessfully argued before Williams that his clients would be irreparably harmed if the state court proceedings continued before the federal court decides the constitutional issue. He said he would appeal the judge's ruling to the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

President Signs Historic Budget Control Legislation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today signed a bill bringing Congress into the federal budget-making process for the first time and curbing the President's authority to impound authorized funds without congressional consent.

In a signing ceremony in the Oval Office, Nixon placed his name on the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974 and called it a major weapon in fighting inflation.

"This bill is the most significant reform of budget procedures since Congress began," Nixon said. "It means Congress and the Executive (branch) will work together to keep down the cost of government, and we can help every American family to hold down their budgets.

"The major problem facing the country today, abroad or at home, is inflation," Nixon said. "This bill deals with that problem. A major problem is overspending by government and with this bill we can help to hold down the cost of living.

"Too often Congress and the Executive appear to be at odds," he added. "Fighting inflation is everybody's burden."

Counties To Get Welfare Fraud Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California counties will be receiving about $750,000 from the state to aid their efforts at detecting and preventing welfare fraud.

State Director of Benefit Payments David B. Swoap said yesterday the plan will allow counties to keep the state share of money recovered from welfare recipients who have improperly obtained family assistance.

"We know that making this state money available to counties will result in a lower incidence of fraud, in the end saving state, county and federal money as well," Swoap said in a statement.

The new regulation, he said, will help counties offset their investigation expenses and encourage much-needed expansion of such probes.

In the past, a county only could retain its share of any fraud payments that were recovered.

Swoap also announced another regulation designed to encourage more fraud investigations. He said it would require welfare workers to certify that they have advised each recipient of the possibility of criminal penalties for withholding information or making false statements in order to gain eligibility or larger payments.

'French Connection' Drug Ring Members Sentenced

MARSEILLE, France (UPI) — A Marseille judge ordered prison terms totalling more than 195 years and a fine of $10 million today for 30 persons convicted of operating the French connection drug ring.

Prosecutors said the ring moved a ton of heroin to the United States before it was smashed, partly through the disclosures by a French singer, Edmond Taillet, 42, who was arrested in New York and named his accomplices to U.S. police.

Taillet, now free in the United States after serving a shortened sentence there, was sentenced to 16 years at today's Marseille hearing.

The man named as leader of the network, a Corsican, Jean Baptiste Croce, 52, received the heaviest sentence — 18 years.

Joseph Marro, a former Marseille bar-owner, received the same sentence in his absence. Police are still searching for him. Other sentences ranged from 15 years to six months.

The accused were ordered to pay a total fine of $10 million, the traditional practice in French courts though the sums are rarely collected.

Croce was arrested in January 1973. During hearings since then, prosecutors said he and his accomplices organized the importation of raw drugs from the Middle and Far East, their refining in laboratories in the Marseille area and their transport to the United States, often via Canada.

Taillet told police he several times acted as a carrier with heroin concealed in a guitar.

Cooperation between American and French narcotics agents led to a widespread crackdown on the drugs business in France last year.

Scores of persons were arrested and clandestine laboratories tracked down and closed throughout the southern France area.

All 30 persons brought before the 7th Correctional Court in Marseille were found guilty of traffic in dangerous drugs. All were French or Corsican nationality, mostly working out of the multi-national port area.

In several cases, the wives of male prisoners were sentenced along with their husbands, includings Mrs. Croce and Mrs. Regazzi.

Sinatra Remains Secluded In Hotel

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Frank Sinatra remained secluded in his Sydney hotel today despite a cease-fire that ended his three-day battle with militant Australian unions.

After days of sensation following a union boycott on his concerts, Sinatra's promoters were busy rescheduling his three canceled Sydney concerts.

Republicans Still Prefer Ford

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vice President Gerald Ford has increased his rating among Republicans in the latest Harris poll as the preferred choice for president.

The poll, released yesterday, showed Ford had jumped two percentage points as favorite since last November. The new poll gives him 23 per cent as compared to 21 per cent in the previous poll, held last November.

Listed in their order of choice, the others mentioned besides Ford were Gov. Ronald Reagan, Nelson Rockefeller, Sen. Charles Percy, John Connally, Sen. Howard Baker, Elliot Richardson, Sen. James Buckley, Sen. Robert Taft and Sen. Lowell Weicker.

PLACE FOR HEALTHY APPETITES — Nick Stephens and Teresa Johnson are regular customers at Shipwreck Pete's and apparently well pleased with what Doris Lind is about to serve them. The Novato restaurant is now more accessible from the highway.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Shipwreck Pete's In Novato Area Is All-American Down The Line

The only thing with a remotely French name on the entire menu at Shipwreck Pete's is the beef brochettes — and even that is spelled without the final "e" as if to dissociate it from anything European.

All the rest is succinctly American — prime rib, "super" New York steak, New York steak sandwiches, top sirloins, hamburgers, cheeseburgers, grilled cod or snapper, prawns, prawns stuffed with crab, scallops, halibut steak, steamed clams and a combination seafood plate. The only other entree that was foreign born is fish and chips, which in the last few years seems to have become a naturalized American dish.

I've seen other menus elsewhere more glamorous to the sight, perhaps, but in the final test less appealing to the taste. The food is excellent quality, simply and honestly prepared and as appetizing as your grandmother's apple pie.

The price range is also appealing — $2.95 to $8.95. That last figure may appear to be high, but it's for a 22-ounce New York steak served with soup or salad, coffee and dessert. And on the first Wednesday of every month, top billing is given to a complete lobster dinner, for which you'll have to make advance reservations and pay $10, but that's not surprising. The surprising thing is that it was the same more than a year ago. Otherwise you can sail along on most nightly dinner items between $2.95 and about $4.95.

Shipwreck Pete's, in the Sportsman's Lodge, a mile or so north of Novato, is the stronghold of Pete and Doris Lind and at various times other members of the Lind family. They have been there several years and have built up a good following. I believe I met Pete for the first time about 16 years ago when he broke away from the old Forty Thieves in San Rafael and set up Pete's Pier 15 on Harbor Drive by the canal. He used to be noted for his delicious Swiss steaks — in fact oldtimers have always associated him with good food in the simple style. They still do, for he hasn't changed a bit and I dare say he never will.

Shipwreck Pete's has been as plagued by complications as some fish are with bones. Highway detours, dust and floods have almost isolated it from easy access during the past few years. Right now it's more accessible — I just hope it will continue to be when highway work is completed in this area. In spite of being under seige, the Linds have quite remarkably "kept their cool. Fortunately, once your're inside, it's a "warm" place and patrons have been loyal. Incidentally, it's a great place for banquets — there are large rooms for them.

I am pleased to see that a talented and serious musician — Johnny Allair — is still here five nights a week. Tuesdays through Sundays.

LOCATION has a lot to do with determining a restaurant's success in serving lunches. Dinner hours may be humming with business, but except for Fridays, noonday tables may be dead.

Fridays can be a different thing. Many patrons are inclined to spend more time over lunch and some have no afternoon commitments.

Fish, Game Seeking Land Compensation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State fish and game officials yesterday asked the Department of Water Resources to acquire and set aside land valued at $9.5 million to compensate for wildlife losses caused by the State Water Project in Southern California.

Department of Fish and Game biologists said "16,875 acres of important wildlife habitat were lost through construction of project facilities, recreationaldevelopments, realignment of access roads and inundation of reservoir sites."

The proposal was made in a report by the Fish and Game Department to water resources officials.

"Two specific proposals are made for mitigation of these losses," the report said.

It recommended creation of a 3,360 acre wildlife area in the San Jacinto Valley of western Riverside County and the purchase of 7,687 acres of private lands within or adjacent to national forests in Southern California.

"Although funds for implementing the recommendations would come from the Department of Water Resources (DWR), the eventual cost would be met by the water users," a wildlife spokesman said.

"Provisions for mitigation of wildlife losses would enable the DWR to meet commitments made in its 1965 application for a Federal Power Commission license to operate the water project as well as meeting the intent of state wildlife and environmental laws," the report said.

The fish and game department also noted that "the $9.5 million cost of the two mitigation proposals is less than 1 per cent of the cost of the State Water Project in Southern California."

On the San Jacinto Valley proposal, the department said water resources presently owns 650 acres of land in the valley. Another 2,710 acres of privately owned land would have to be acquired at an estimated cost of $5.4 million and an additional $896,665 was asked for construction of initial facilities.

The report said the lands would be turned over to the Fish and Game Department which would operate the wildlife area for both hunting and nonhunting recreation.

The second recommendation for 7,687 acres of land near Los Los Angeles, Los Padres and San Bernardino National Forests would cost an estimated $3.1 million, the department said. "Responsibility for the maintenance of wildlife values on these lands would be turned over to the U.S. Forest Service," it said.

Repair Contract Set On Bridge

Data station conduits used in testing pile corrosion rates on the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge are going to be repaired, according to Toll Bridge Administration authorities.

The $11,950 contract, scheduled to begin Monday, has been awarded to Podesta Divers of San Francisco.

The work will be entirely under water and consists of drilling into concrete piers and securing the conduits with new stainless steel anchors. The project is scheduled for completion by the end of July.

Repertory Group To Perform Play

The San Francisco Repertory Company, now based in San Rafael, will open its production of Harold Pinter's latest play, "Old Times," next Friday night at the Great Store, 1122 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

The play deals with the relations and trials that separate people. It is directed by Michelle Truffaut and stars Wana Dowell, Miss Truffaut and Gene Schankel. Dinner is at 7:30 p.m. and the show starts at 8:30 p.m.

DINING OUT

Fisher has stayed fairly clear of serving lunches except to groups by advance reservation. However, he now feels he can make it on Fridays and is now serving lunches on that day alone.

He's holding his menu to three items — braised veal sirloin tips at $3.25; clams marinero with pasta — $1.95; and sliced cross rib roast on French bread, also $1.95. French bread is also served with the first two and all are accompanied by tossed salad and coffee.

TONIGHT is another amateur's night at the Mayflower Inn in San Rafael and a good attraction promises to be a barbershop quarter group called the Barbary Coasters. You'll also find pianist John McLarnon a good accompanist, in case you want to do a little performing on your own. He's now at the Mayflower both Friday and Saturday nights.

Food prices are still in the reasonable range and I believe the most expensive item on the menu is the combination plate of prawns, scallops and Icelandic haddock at $3.95.

SOMETHING INTERESTING besides the food should be coming out of Le Camembert in Tamalpais Valley soon. This has long been a favorite spot of certain movie stars and now I understand Rafael Films spent an entire day this week shooting scenes. I think they'll be put together in a production called Svengali the Magician.

IN REMINISCING through the years to Pete's Pier 15 the other day it came to me that this column was just about due for another birthday — and it was. The first Dining Out and Inn was published 17 years ago today on July 12, 1957. If you have an old 1957 calendar around the house you can use it for 1974 — it's synchronized.

Some of the people I wrote about in those early columns are still in business — Bill Wachter at the Alta Mira Hotel; Pat and Marion Vincent at Mountain Home Inn; the Gutekunst-Martinez-Roblin trio at Ondine; Hector and Nancy Rubini (then at the Fairfax restaurant which still bears their name — and others.

But there have been a lot of changes, too. Hamie's, Mission Inn and Marvel Mar are just names remembered by the oldtimers. Such names as Buon Gusto Villa, Vidak's, Bob's of Marin, Flamingo Inn, Little Sweden, Nello's, Rickey's Rancho Rafael and Rod's Hickory Pit are almost forgotten.

If you were eating out in Marin in those days you will remember that Cliff and Petey Cox had Le Chateau and John Soohoo was doing the cooking. Kirby Atterbury's Caprice was where El Borro in Tiburon is now, and across the street Sam Vella was still alive and running Sam's Anchor Cafe. Both Joe and Antoinette Ghiringhelli were working daily at Deer Park Villa; Nick and Mary Kobseff were out at Rancho Nicasio instead of in McCloud; and Pete Ostaggi had the old West End Villa.

Wes Martin ran the Ranch House Restaurant in San Anselmo; Leo Cramer and Walt Smith operated San Rafael's Music Box; and Ernie's Waterfront Cafe in Sausalito was a popular spot on the Bridgeway. Sabella's was north of where it is now and I believe Monie Mulcahy was playing the organ. And there was no fence separating Marin Joe's from the highway.

Vic Scherini and Al Barghini had Traveler's Inn in San Rajfael instead of the Louies, who were then at Joe's Village Patio in Corte Madera. Dick Hamilton's famous Hamilton House in Fairfax had already burned down and I think that in 1957 he had a place going in San Francisco. Incidentally, he's still living in Marin and retired. Manka's Czech Restaurant and the Prokupeks were just getting started in Inverness. And to top it off, there was a restaurant strike about the middle of the year — which didn't do much to help this columnist with his dinery news.

Yes, there have been some changes, but all in all the years have been kind to Marin restaurants — there are now more of them than ever.

Drop Forecast In Wheat Production

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department July crop report issued yesterday showed 1974 wheat production prospect declined sharply again, and said corn acreage would be slightly below the administration's optimistic March forecasts.

The wheat harvest, still heading for a record despite continued slippage from early estimates, was put at 1.925 billion bushels, compared with last year's record of 1.711 billion bushels. As recently as late June, this year's crop had been put at a potential 2.074 billion bushels after slipping from initial forecasts of about 2.2 billion bushels.

The new estimate indicated the 1974 wheat harvest could exceed potential demand in the 1974-75 marketing year, but only by the relatively slim margin of about 65 million bushels on the basis of recent government demand estimates. This would permit some rebuilding of the nation's thin wheat reserve, but the balance between supply and need would be much closer than predicted earlier.

In late June, officials had predicted the wheat crop might exceed demand by a margin of 214 million bushels.

The Crop Reporting Board, on the basis of early-June surveys, also estimated yesterday that farmers will harvest 67.6 million acres of corn for grain, up 9 per cent from 1973. Officials said producers are expected to harvest 52.5 million acres of soybeans, down 7 per cent from last year's record.

Agriculture experts noted that the acreage estimates for spring crops like corn, soybeans and cotton, were based on surveys made before adverse June weather forced changes in cropping plans for some farmers. A new estimate based on later surveys will be issued in August.

No production forecasts for corn and soybeans were issued yesterday. However, officials were scheduled to release an updated analysis of potential output of these crops in a special report today.

The wheat production estimate included a winter wheat crop of 1.403 billion bushels. This was down 8 per cent, or 128 million bushels, from the June forecast of 1.521 billion bushels, but was 10 per cent above last year's crop.

Spring wheat production was forecast at 522.1 million bushels compared to a tentative June projection of 543 billion bushels and last year's crop of 441.7 million bushels.

Jim Jams Coffee Shop Will Open Under New Management

Jim Jams Coffee Shop at 810 Third Street in San Rafael is preparing to reopen under new ownership.

New owners are a young couple from Emeryville, In Hwan Oh and his wife Soo Ja, who will serve breakfast and lunch seven days a week. They plan to open from 6 a.m. to about 4 p.m., with breakfast, sandwiches, hamburgers, hot dogs and ice cream.

Miller attended College of Marin and is vice chairman of the Marin County Housing Authority. He is a member of the state Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers.

WILLIAM F. KRAAS of San Rafael joined Wells Fargo Bank's corporate advisory service, financial analysis department, San Francisco, as vice president.

A specialist in corporate finance, Kraas comes to the bank with 13 years of previous financial and banking experience. He graduated from Wabash College in Indiana in 1955 and won his master of business administration degree from Northwestern University in Chicago in 1971.

SECURITY PACIFIC Bank will establish a new branch in Novato, somewhere in the central business district, but the exact site has not been selected as yet.

The bank just received permission for the new Novato branch from the Comptroller of the Currency. Security Pacific Bank has more than 470 domestic banking locations including one in San Rafael at 1242 Fifth Avenue, plus offices abroad.

CLARENCE NORRIS of Petaluma qualified as registered representative of John Hancock Distributors Inc., broker dealer for John Hancock mutual funds. Norris is associated with John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company's general agency in San Rafael.

GENESIS HAIR CREATIONS at 844 Third Street in San Rafael announced a new addition to its staff.

Travel Club Formed By The B Of A

SAN FRANCISCO — Bank of America has announced detailed plans for the formation of a new travel organization to be called "Pathways Travel Club." Memberships will be offered initially to some three-and-a-half million Bank of America customer families in California.

Memberships also will be open to the general public, according to J.A. Carrera, executive vice president and executive officer for the California Division of Bank of America, who made the announcement.

Carrera said that services will include commission-free travelers cheques, BankAmericard financing, a bi-monthly magazine, and travel accident insurance.

Memberships will be $15 for a family or $10 for an individual.

Retail travel agents will receive a ten per cent commission on all memberships and tour sales, according to the bank. Agents will have full commission protection on all memberships which they originate.

The bank also announced it has contracted with Pacific Pathways, Inc., of San Francisco and London to design and arrange the club's travel offerings.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Highest Income With Safety

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 62 and will retire this year. My goal is to realize from my investments the highest possible income compatible with safety of principal. Therefore, I would like to retain those investments that support my objectives and convert the others into Treasury Bills or Savings Certificates. Please give me your opinion on my holdings (list enclosed). I am in the 50 per cent tax bracket. — M. H.

A. Your tax liability would have been less burdensome had you held municipal bonds rather than income-producing stocks. With retirement imminent, however, such a move would be like "locking the barn door after the horse was stolen." Five of your seventeen holdings, for one reason or another, do not fit your objectives and should be sold. Consolidated Edison (NYSE) has little appeal at present in view of its financial difficulties and lack of return. Curtiss-Wright (NYSE) is also too speculative for your retirement portfolio. Deteriorating earnings, a less-than-liberal regulatory climate and an excessively high dividend payout rate are some of the problems facing Illinois Power (NYSE).

Although W. T. Grant (NYSE) has maintained the reduced 15-cent a share dividend payment for 2 quarters, the viability even of this amount is threatened. After the poor results reported for the year ended January, 1974, Grant started the current fiscal year with a 51 cent a share deficit in the April quarter. Sale of this issue is recommended.

My final liquidation advice is based on the issue's low yield rather than any intrinsic weakness in the stock's potential. Squibb Corp. (NYSE), traditionally a growth issue, has reported higher earnings in all but 1 of the past 10 years. Consequently, the shares command a relatively high P/E. Even in today's undervalued market, Squibb is trading at 21X projected earnings.

As an alternative and/or supplement to the T-Bills and Savings Certificates which you are considering, you might investigate high-yielding money market funds or corporate bonds. Both recently recommended vehicles are paying close-to-record-level interest rates.

Right To Gold Returns To U.S.

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Sometime before the end of the year Americans may share a right that nationals of other countries have long enjoyed, the right to buy gold bullion on the open market.

Not since 1933 has this been legally possible for a U.S. citizen, although unofficial estimates place in the billions of dollars the amount of bullion — uncoined, unshaped except as bars — stashed overseas by Americans.

Both the Senate and House have passed bills to permit U.S. citizens to own bullion. The administration, although hesitantly, has pronounced such sales to be right and just.

Now that the moment is at hand, a good many influential Americans, including the secretary of the Treasury, have shown signs of nervousness and a tendency to procrastinate, fearful it seems of what will emerge from a box closed 41 years.

One of the more perplexing facets of the problem is this: Why should Americans now be permitted to own a commodity whose ownership in the past was considered unpatriotic and dangerous? Have times changed that much?

Yes, times have changed. Gold has been further demonetized, or gradually removed from its role in currencies. The world's trading nations now seek to repose full faith in paper, unbacked by gold.

The situation was similar in 1933 too, when the U.S. government sought to bolster paper currency by not only denying convertibility into gold by its citizens but going one step further and making it illegal even to possess gold.

Foreign central banks could still redeem their dollars for gold, but that right also was suspended on Aug. 15, 1971. There were simply too many dollars abroad and too little gold to redeem them.

But more to the point, many analysts note, is that attitudes have changed since 1933, and many of them compare the gold prohibition to the abortive attempt to deny Americans the right to drink alcohol.

Estimates vary widely, but many billions of dollars in gold bullion are believed hoarded abroad by Americans. Charles Stahl, publisher of a commodity report, estimates the total at between $20 billion and $24 billion.

The prohibition, it appears, hasn't been effective. While the world's trading nations attempt to substitute paper to replace gold because a limited gold supply would restrict trade, many Americans seem to be losing confidence in paper money, mainly because inflation deflates its value.

Good Economic News Spurs Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Inspired by some favorable economic news, prices soared today in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The heartening news for the market related to interest rates, which have concerned investors for months. First National City Bank of New York, a trend setter and the second largest bank in the nation, held its prime rate — that charged key corporate customers — at 12 per cent. Many had expected it to go higher.

Easing the pressure on the decision was a report by the Federal Reserve Board late yesterday showing the demand for corporate and industrial loans in the last week decreased to $92 million from $1.1 billion the week before.

With this activity, many investors came off the sidelines to buy oversold stocks, particularly in the chemicals, oils, electronics, computers and glamors.

Dupont gained 3, Eastman Kodak 3 ⅛ and Monsanto and Dow Chemical 2 apiece.

Federal National Mortgage was the most active issue, up 1 ⅛ at 13 on 184,300 shares, including a block of 118,000 shares at 12 ¾. Westinghouse Electric followed, up ¼ at 13 ⅛ on 134,200 shares, including a block of 100,000 shares at 13. Imperial Corp. was third, up ½ at 6 ⅝ on 116,900 shares.

Prices were higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. Syntex was the most active issue, up 2 at 41 on 45,500 shares. Shenandoah Oil followed, unchanged at 11 ¾ on 30,000 shares. Marinduque B followed, up ⅛ at 4 on 20,800 shares.

HAROLD A. STROUSS
New president

Rotarians Elect New President

Harold A. Strouss of Terra Linda has been installed for the year ending next June 30 as president of the Central Marin Rotary Club based in Corte Madera.

Strouss, 43, has had an extensive background in community service and business groups.

Besides his new post, he is also chairman of the Marin County Housing Authority. He served as president of the Kiwanis Club of Southern Marin in 1968 and was a past director of the Marin County Board of Realtors and the California Realtors Association.

"I feel there is a need for people to take an active part in community affairs," Strouss explained.

Strouss says he hopes to expand the membership in the club, which serves Corte Madera, Larkspur and Greenbrae and is now in its second year. He also wants to raise more funds for the club's projects such as awarding scholarships to local high school students. The group is also sponsoring a Japanese student at the University of California at Berkeley.

A native of Marin, Strouss was reared in Mill Valley and attended Tamalpais High School and College of Marin. He received his bachelor-of-arts degree in business from San Francisco State University.

He is vice-president and general manager of Grubb and Ellis' Realtors in its Marin County residential division.

Strouss lives at 576 Montecillo Road in Terra Linda with his wife of 17 years, Joan and his two sons, Eric, 11, and Todd, 7.

Other officers elected are Robert Grime of San Rafael, president-elect for 1975-76; Richard Ritter of Santa Rosa, treasurer, and Valton Johnson of San Rafael, secretary.

Stanford Nurses End Their Strike

STANFORD (UPI) — Nurses at Stanford Medical Center have voted overwhelmingly to accept a 15 per cent pay hike and end their strike.

They returned to work today after approval of a new contract last night.

More than 700 nurses walked off the job last June 30, although a few stayed on to aid critically ill patients.

ALMANAC

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Friday, July 12, the 193rd day of 1974 with 172 to follow.

The moon is in its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mars.

American writer Henry Thoreau was born July 12, 1817. This also is the 36th birthday of American actor-comic Bill Cosby and the 76th for entertainer Milton Berle.

On this day in history:

In 1862, the U.S. Medal of Honor was authorized by Congress.

In 1933, a new industrial code was established to fix a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour in the United States.

In 1972, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota was nominated as the Democratic candidate for president. He was badly beaten in November by Richard Nixon.

A thought for the day: It was writer Henry Thoreau who said, "That man is the richest whose pleasures are the cheapest."

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Think Hold-Up Action When Executing Suit Contract, Too

We all use the hold-up play at no-trump contracts, but we sometimes forget it at a suit contract. This is like forgetting to get out of the way when the enemy is throwing bricks. A well-aimed brick will do the job just as effectively as a bullet. (In fact, the only time you shouldn't get out of the way is when the enemy is throwing tricks.)

HOLD-UP PLAY

When West leads the jack of diamonds against the contract of four hearts, South should refuse to win the first trick. This hold-up play is necessary to assure the contract.

See what happens if South wins the first trick. He enters dummy with a club to try the heart finesse. West wins with the king of hearts and leads his other diamond.

East is thus put in position to win two diamond tricks. West later gets a spade trick, defeating the contract.

WINS SECOND TRICK

Now see what happens if South holds up his ace of diamonds at the first trick. West leads the other diamond, and South wins.

Declarer enters dummy with a club to try the heart finesse. West wins with the king of hearts but cannot lead another diamond. East never gets the second diamond trick, for South eventually discards a diamond on one of dummy's spades (after trying and losing a spade finesse).

At a no-trump contract, the hold-up play is executed to shut out a suit. At a trump contract, the purpose may be just to save one trick. Even one trick is sometimes very important.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - Q J 6
♥ - Q J 8 4
♦ - 9 5 3
♣ - A K 3.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

If partner shows great enthusiasm for hearts, you will accept a heart contract. Otherwise, you will steer a course for three no-trump.

House Watergate Report Orderly In Information

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Now that all the Watergate evidence is out, it is clear that the decision whether to impeach President Nixon will be based on information everyone had known about for a long time.

The House Judiciary Committee's hefty report carries new shreds of information, but no new big disclosure to arouse the country.

There is nothing to inspire the "firestorm" of outcry which followed Archibald Cox's dismissal in October, the cynicism which followed Nixon's disclosure of his tax returns in December or the distaste expressed even by Republican leaders following the publication of his Watergate transcripts in April.

Members of Congress who thought their decision could be made easier — or easier to explain — by one more shock disclosure will be disappointed.

Yesterday's report was an orderly recitation — in purposely unexciting language — of information.

Each of the eight volumes is labeled, in a tone deaf phrase, a "statement of information." The committee chose that term because it thought the word "evidence" was too inflammatory.

Another mass release is still to come. It deals with non-Watergate matters — Nixon's taxes, the financing of improvements to his homes, the ITT affair, the attempt to use the IRS for political revenge and reward, the motivation behind the milk producers' generosity, wiretaps, Ellsberg, "plumbers."

ARCHIBALD COX
Nothing as hot

But impeachment revolves around Watergate. If Nixon can escape being impeached on his Watergate involvement, he will escape impeachment.

It acted on the same information which now confronts the 38 members of the judiciary committee.

Whether that information convinced them to recommend that the House impeach the President will depend upon how they define impeachable conduct.

That's been the question from the start.

Nixon loyalists say presidential criminality must be proven. Only evidence which shows that the President broke a law — committed a "high crime or misdemeanor" — will justify impeaching him and putting him on trial in the Senate, they say.

Nixon critics say a President can be impeached for violating the people's trust, for abusing his power or misusing his office — offenses not specifically outlawed by statute because only a President can commit them.

Gucci Fined $2,500 On Crocodile Shoe Shipment

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Italian-based Gucci Corp. has found out that although crocodile shoes are stylish they are also illegal, the State Department of Fish and Game said yesterday.

Gucci, which operates a shoe store in Beverly Hills, paid a $2,500 fine after pleading guilty to a charge of importing for sale 49 pairs of crocodile shoes with a retail value of up to $190 a pair.

State law pertaining to endangered species forbids the importation into California for commercial purposes any crocodile.

The shoes were seized by department wardens on information supplied by a deputy state attorney general who discovered them during a shopping expedition.

Half of the fine will go to the Los Angeles County fish and game propagation fund and the other half will go to the department's wildlife preservation fund.

The department said Beverly Hills Municipal Court Judge Leonard Wolf ordered the shoes returned to Gucci with the stipulation they be shipped back to Italy.

Youth Killed In Yosemite

YOSEMITE (AP) — A 16-year-old Aptos youth has died in a fall in a rugged canyon of Yosemite park, authorities said.

The body of Eric Stakkestad was recovered yesterday in trail-less Tanaya Canyon east of Yosemite Valley.

Park rangers said Stakkestad and two compansions became lost Wednesday when heavy fog, rain and snow enveloped the area.

Trade Union Backs Edmund G. Brown

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Democrat Edmund G. Brown Jr. has won endorsement from a group of trade unions which backed San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto in the June primary.

The state Building and Trades Council, which represents about 360,000 construction workers in the state, gave Brown their backing yesterday at their convention here.

Pismo Camp Ban Lifted For Holiday

BURLINGAME (UPI) — Faced with the prospect of fighting thousands of weekend vehicle camping enthusiasts, the California Coastal Commission has made a strategic retreat.

This spring a regional commission banned overnight camping on the sands of a 7.2-mile stretch at Pismo State Beach — scene of car camping for four decades.

In recent years, the number of vehicles camping overnight has swelled to as many as 5,000 on peak three-day weekends. Health authorities said so much human debris was left that the health of the clam beds was threatened.

Deputy Director William S. Briner of the Parks and Recreation Department said pressure for camping on the beach has been so great the overnight ban has not been strictly enforced. Daytime activities were not restricted.

For Labor Day, Briner said only the National Guard could cope with thousands of vehicle enthusiasts expected to show up for a camping weekend.

Briner's department said it is preparing a permanent plan which will solve the problem. In the meantime, it obtained a temporary permit from the regional commission to install 320 chemical toilets to remain place until Dec. 31.

But the state coastal commission Wednesday rescinded it.

The permit was opposed by a representative of privately-owned vehicle parks in the area. The commissioners also were annoyed by Briner's inability — or unwillingness — to enforce the ban.

After a lunch break, the commission reconsidered. It voted unanimously to issue an emergency permit for the 320 chemical toilets but attached a condition. It said the Labor Day crowd must be limited by Briner's department to between 1,000 and 1,200 vehicles.

Van Dyke Divorce

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor Jerry Van Dyke, 43, was sued for divorce Thursday by his wife of 18 years, Carol, on grounds of irreconcilable differences. They had been separated for seven months.

Pizza Arrives In Style—A Fire Truck

BERKELEY (UPI) — Pizza parlor owner Karen Biberman planned to use a bicycle for deliveries but changed her mind. She bought a 1942 Mack fire truck instead.

"Those headlights looked at me like two big eyes and said 'Buy me,'" she says. "So I did."

The red light and siren cannot be used for pizza deliveries, not even for the chile pepper special, the California Highway Patrol has warned. But she hopes they can stay if disconnected.

Japan Asks Russia To Stop Exercize

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan has asked the Soviet Union to call off its bombing and firing exercises in the Sea of Okhotsk and Siberia scheduled for next week, the foreign ministry reported today.

It said the request was made to ensure safety of fishing vessels operating in the areas.

Polite Thief Leaves Man $20

PASADENA (UPI) — How do you know you're being robbed by a considerate thief, unless you ask? Ed Bignell did, and got lucky.

Two gunmen held up the An[illegible] Wednesday, getting $700 from the cash register and $300 from the patrons. When they got to Bignell, he demanded to know how they thought he was going to pay for his meal if they left him broke.

Sister Hannah Herlihy Acts Upon Her Social Beliefs

By BETTY FROST

Sister Hannah Herlihy is a person who acts upon her principles, "even though it may not be the popular thing to do."

She is deeply concerned about California farm workers and after much study of the issues, felt the workers were being exploited.

Critical at this time is the issue of free elections for the workers to choose the union they wish to join, according to Sister Hannah.

She has picketed stores, leafleted, tried to explain the cause to others and asked for boycotts of iceberg lettuce, grapes und certain wines.

"I have spoken to workers in San Francisco who are on strike, attended many meetings and am a member of the phone committee which notifies people of United Farm Workers meetings," the teaching nun said.

A member of the Order of the Daughters of Mary and Joseph, Sister Hannah has been a teacher for 34 years and a principal for 15 of those years. For the past eight years she has been working in Mill Valley at Our Lady of Mount Carmel School and living at the convent near the school.

SHE IS NOW teaching the fourth grade, where she finds the children "are beautiful and responsive."

"I much prefer to work with the children than in school administration" she said.

"After a sabbatical year of 'study and renewal' in Ireland, it is my firm intention to return to Mill Valley and to the classroom," she said.

A native of County Kerry, the num will be spending her sabbatical year at a seminary near Dublin in County Kildare. She will leave at the end of the month and will be honored at a reception at the convent in Mill Valley July 28, sponsored by the school's Parent-Teacher group.

Accompanying her will be her sister, also a nun of the same order, Sister Kathleen Herlihy, who is the principal of St. Michael's School in San Francisco. They have a married brother who lives in the family home in County Kerry.

Another social concern for Sister Hannah is "the poor people who live in Mill Valley, and particularly the elderly." During her stay in Mill Valley she has frequently visited Mill Valley rest homes.

OF THE TROUBLES and bloodshed in Ireland, she said, emphatically, "This is not in any way a religious war. The issues are political and economic. England came over to Ireland and brought people who happened to be Protestant. The Irish were kept out of the government and remained the poorest residents of North Ireland. The problems are so deep-seated and deep-rooted, one can't see any solution. I have been away so long that I don't know all about it, and a year would not be time enough to learn all about it."

She lived in England for 10 years, and has no animosity toward the English people, she affirmed. During her years in Marin Sister Hannah has also been involved in many ecumenical activities.

She completed elementary school in Ireland and was a boarding student at Sacred Heart School in Scarborough, Yorkshire, England during her high school years. She was a novice at the Mother House of her order in Brussels, Belgium, when World War II started. In May of 1940 Sister Hannah was on the last ship to leave Belgium for England. She had been assigned to Los Angeles and had gone to England to bid old friends goodbye.

It was impossible to travel to the United States at that time. She remained in England and taught for the next five years, often teaching the children in bomb shelters and daily viewing the devastation from falling bombs.

It wasn't until January 1946 that she and two other nuns were able to fly to this country. There were three cancellations on a war brides' plane, which enabled the sisters to fly as far as Chicago, where they took a train to Los Angeles.

She was sent to St. Paul the Apostle School in Westwood, where she taught for 18 years. She also obtained the California teaching credential and became an American citizen in Los Angeles. Sister Hannah taught at St. Michael's School in San Francisco for two years before coming to Mill Valley.

THE QUESTION of habits she dismissed gently, remarking that "habits are a matter of choice." She prefers simple ordinary clothes, but will take a blue dress and veil with her to Ireland "because it may make others in religious communities feel more comfortable.

Of far more importance to the teacher are nonviolent means to resolve social issues.

"We have to give the example, to come back again and again and explain so that everyone can understand," she explained.

SISTER HANNAH Herlihy, who has been a teacher with the Order of the Daughters of Mary and Joseph for 34 years, will return to her native Ireland for what she calls "a sabbatical year of renewal" at the end of July. She will be honored by pupils and parents of Our Lady of Mount Carmel School in Mill Valley at a reception July 28.

STARTED SERIOUSLY

Women's Lib Basis For Humorous Novel

By DOLLIE L. SMITH

RALEIGH (UPI) — Linda Grimsley started out four years ago to write a serious book for housewives on how to stay at home and like it but ended up with a comic novel on the women's liberation movement.

In "Guerrilla in the Kitchen," the 34-year-old freelance writer and mother of three has found a deceptively funny way of raising the consciousness of those women who have been turned off by the more militant feminists.

The book cover states that its contents are "a wild figment" of her imagination, but she readily admits the adventures of her heroine, Geneive Granger, parallel her own experiences.

"I see myself as a bridge between traditionalists and militants, bridging an enormous gap in communication," she said in a recent interview in her Raleigh home.

Geneive is a "chicken-hearted" heroine, suffering from hypochondria and anxiety attacks, who uses a guerrilla war manual as her guide to a new way of living.

THE BOOK'S theme is that liberation is psychologically inevitable for women, and they face an "adolescent type" rebellion in learning to stand on their own two feet.

The book's author in 1962 was the outstanding woman graduate at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. She worked as a journalist before marrying Joseph Wing Grimsley.

After a series of moves, including a two-year stint in British Honduras while her husband was with the Peace Corps, Mrs. Grimsley "came down with culture shock."

"I was really intent on being a housewife and sticking to the traditional role and raising my children, and I just couldn't figure out why I was walking around being so down and depressed all the time if this was my role," she said.

She began to investigate other housewives to find out their secret to happiness in order to write a "coping manual for housewives." But as she got further into her research, "the more dissatisfaction I saw, and I started to get alarmed," she said.

She learned she didn't like being a housewife and her depression was actually suppressed anger.

By HELEN BOTTEL

Tell Your Weight Loss Adviser To Take Her Stories Elsewhere

DEAR HELEN:

I consider myself an expert when it comes to dieting, but I don't yak about it constantly. I know all the allowable foods, and if I don't always eat them, that's my business. Over the years I've lost several hundred pounds, and haven't gained all of them back, so I'm ahead of the game.

But this woman calls me several times a week with "advice" for weight loss. She takes up every fad diet that comes along and insists I try it. I've had it up to here with her bla, bla, bla, implying I'm a slob, which I'm not.

How do you tell someone nicely that you hate her weight talk? — BORED BY A SEMI-BLIMP

DEAR BORED:

"Nicely" or not, get it across to this woman that she should go her weigh and you, yours. And if she doesn't get the message, hang up. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There's a big hullabaloo about making it illegal in rape cases for the man's attorney to bring up the female accuser's past sexual history.

So a dame who dispenses it freely, can holler "rape!" and a guy goes to jail because he probably figured she meant him to.

I think they're going overboard to protect women who don't need protecting these days. How can you take something away from a person who has already given it away? — TWJ

DEAR T.:

Why should a woman's past sexual history be used against her when the accused rapist's former brushes with the law cannot be used as evidence to show him capable of the crime?

And consider this: you're en route to a charity function where you'll donate $100. On the way, you're mugged and robbed. Because "you were going to give the money away," is stealing it then permissible? And do you deserve the lump on your head for being "generous?"

Sorry, friend, I don't think they're going overboard to protect women against rape. It's a vicious, brutal, degrading crime and all too common these days. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Our children are grown. I'd like to finally use my brains and college education in an interesting job, and I'm sure I could find one, as I have ambition and also good connections.

But my husband thinks I should continue with volunteer work, as we don't need the money and I'd just be donating more than half of it back to the government in income taxes.

Raising money in society benefits and visiting hospitals twice a week is great, but not fulfilling. I need to prove that I can earn my way, perhaps carve out a career. I sense my husband's resistance is partially due to fear.

How can I prove I won't draw away from him just because I want what he has: a place in the world? — WIFE OF A COMPANY MAN

DEAR WIFE:

Why not prove it by doing it? Find that interesting job, and show your husband how much more vital and aware you are. (To and of him also). Good luck. — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

No Drastic Earning Changes Seen

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor
(Last of three articles)

The families of the future pretty much will follow the pattern set by contemporary families when it comes to earnings.

There will be the affluent — mostly those heading for law and medicine. And there will be the less than affluent — counting those heading for careers in the fields that today are less remunerative than law and medicine — Teaching, medical therapy and such.

The patterns in career plans and earnings develop in an analysis of responses to a United Press International survey of finalists in the nationwide search for the Betty Crocker 1974 All American Family Leader of Tomorrow.

"An upper-middle class type salary — whatever that may be in 20 or 30 years."

"I've always had a secret desire to be a politician, but I'm considering law or some biological science field as more realistic choices."

Not so with Judith Lynn Eckels, of Oklahoma City, Okla., the future family leader from that state. "I plan to be some kind of engineer — either mechanical, aerospace, electrical or chemical."

She also hopes, at the peak of her career, to be earning $30,000 to $50,000.

"EVENTUALLY I would really like to start a small special school of my own," she said. "I hope to earn from $15,000 to $20,000 a year before taxes."

Susan Lynn Van Wechel, the first place winner in the family leader search and from Portland, also expects to head for the health field — but with a difference.

"In medicine or in research I would have the opportunity to both satisfy my scientific interests and further the advantages of our society," she said in describing the aim of her career plans. On earnings at the peak — it depends with Miss Van Wechel. She said to the question of earnings:

"As a physician I could expect to earn up to $100,000 per year, depending on the location and specialization of my practice."

The second place winner, James Barney Kilpatrick, of New Orleans, La., hopes to head for law — and at the peak of his career will be earning "over $50,000."

KATHLEEN LOUISE Ferrel is another aiming for law school. She also hopes to combine her career and family, as many of the female finalists in the Future Family Leader search do. The South Carolina family leader from Columbia figures, based on current salaries, she expects at the peak to be earning $25,000 a year as an attorney.

Other career goals and salary expections:

From Volga, Iowa, Mary F. O'Brien, the Future Family Leader of Iowa, expects, by today's standards, to be earning "at the most" $12,000 a year.

From Kansas City, Mo., Lawrence Alan Krissek, Missouri's Future Family Leader, also probably will be surprised at his earnings at the peak of his career. He expects from $12,000 to $15,000.

But he will be entering oceanography, working for government or a private corporation, if his plans go as expected. He also expects to get a master's degree. If he does all those things, his peak earnings will be considerably higher.

A Traveling Mother Has Her Problems

NEW YORK (AP) — The energy crunch has made travel more difficult for everyone, but if you think you have troubles, consider the mother with a baby in tow.

What's a mother to do? "Traveling long or short distances with an infant need be no problem," says Dr. Henry Harris, clinical instructor of pediatrics at the Albert Einstein College Hospital and adviser for Open Line, a national telephone network for callers who need medical questions answered.

"Babies are old enough to travel from two weeks on," Dr. Harris said. "In fact, they are easy to take along no matter how long the trip. At that age, everything is new to them and they're secure because they're with their parents.

"Still, the smart mother should always carry a few essentials for baby, no matter where she is going. For example, disposable diapers; moist towelettes; convenience forms of an iron-fortified infant formula; a favorite toy, any prescription medicine and an extra wrap, just in case.

Aspirin And Booze Don't Mix

Since both aspirin and alcohol are stomach irritants, they should not be mixed.

According to Dr. Harold Moessner, a University of Iowa clinical assistant professor of family practice, studies show that aspirin may cause an inflammation of the stomach called "gastritis," or tiny hemorrhages.

Women Can Put The Skids Beneath Sexual Attackers

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate

DENVER — "It's that thing that happens to someone else, and it happened so quickly. I knew I should have reported it to the police, but at the time I just didn't want to go through the hassle. So I went to my doctor, told him to check me for bugs (venereal disease) and tried to forget it. But I haven't and never will. I'm a mature woman, and it scared the hell out of me. I can't help but think how much worse the experience would be for some young inexperienced girl.

"THAT MAN should be castrated! I know that sounds like cruel and inhuman treatment, but I don't see him as a poor soul who needs to be helped. I see him as a demented soul who needs to be stopped at any cost."

Women must band together to stop the rapists, and this means every rape (by so-called friend or foe) must be reported as soon as possible as a measure to protect other women. The rapist is a repeater.

There are, of course, a number of good-sense preventive measures to be employed from the git-go, like traveling in groups when possible, avoiding dark streets and walkways, never accepting rides from strangers no matter how nice they appear to be, locking doors and windows even in the heat of summer, keeping your auto in top repair, springing and/or blowing the police whistle you keep on your key chain or around your neck (most rapists are cowards when it comes to being in the spotlight).

If fate places you and the rapist in the same place at the same time and you are unable to prevent the assault, take good mental notes —his description, what he says, what appears to be part of his ritual before and after the assault. This will be helpful to the police in identifying him later.

THE RAPIST depends upon women being embarrassed or afraid to report the attack. Consequently, for years he has been able to go about raping women with little concern for being caught. This must cease.

If you are raped, report it to the police immediately (many cities have specially trained rape details). Consider it a public service to other women — possibly your daughter.

A group of concerned women in Denver, Colo., reportedly the rape capital of the world, offers help to rape victims. The members baby-sit while the victim appears in court, arranges transportation for her and so on. By pursuing the rapist, the victim can eliminate him as a potential threat to herself, her daughters, all women. The group meets periodically and openly discusses rape and related problems of safety for women.

The threat of the rapist is real for every female. We may not be able to stop him completely, but collectively we can begin to put the skids on him.

Hiking Will Be Topic Of Talk Shows

Marin hiking trails will be the topic of Tuesday's guest on Jorie Talks, one of a variety of topics on the 8:30 a.m., Monday through Friday program on KTIM Radio.

Margot Patterson Doss will discuss the Marin trails featured in her new book, "Paths of Gold." On Thursday, Joan Chatfield-Taylor, San Francisco Chronicle fashion editor, will explore the new approach to apparel coverage in journalism.

Needlecraft expert Sylvia Campbell of Novato guests on Wednesday, discussing her visit to the country's only school of needlework at the one-time home of artist Winslow Homer in West Townsend, Mass.

On Monday film critic Sheila Benson of Mill Valley will review "Chinatown" and "Daisy Miller," and on Friday Corinne Swall of Kentfield will discuss the Inverness Music Festival.

she interviewed, she said, "had similar symptoms" but not quite as dramatic as hers, and many were "suffering and were not aware of it."

At that point the concept of her book changed drastically just as the women's movement began to burst forth across the country.

"I figured that the women's liberation people were the most unrealistic people I had ever, ever heard of . . . that they were living in some kind of dream world," she said. "They had cut themselves off from reality and they were going to go down in a psychological mess."

She went "with much reluctance" to a women's liberation meeting in Chapel Hill to get a first-hand look.

She buried herself in books on the liberation movement and began to realize the "tremendous humor potential in the movement," she said.

"The whole situation of the traditional versus the militant had such potential for hilarity," she said. "Despite all the pain and anxiety, I could sit at my typewriter laughing."

Most of the writing on the movement had a tone of anger, bitterness, hostility and pessimism, she said. She extracted what she "considered the confidence-building precepts of this entire scene" for use in her book.

IT WAS AT this point, she said, that she, for the first time, "could understand what those women in the street with their fists clenched were talking about."

"What I wanted to do was kick a hole in my wall," she said. "I wanted to sit down and not cook another meal. I wanted to take the children somewhere, anywhere to some friendly soul and just leave them there, and I wanted to escape my house."

Her children and husband, a state government official, did suffer during this period, she admits. Her husband, she said, tried to explain to the children what was happening. They persevered.

"He's out there shoving me when I want to retreat into my corner," she said.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Godot' Starts Slowly, Builds In Second Act

By GERALD GENESE

Samuel Beckett's, "Waiting For Godot," the existentialists' "Odd Couple," is now being performed during the College of Marin's "Summer Theater '74." The play is in two acts. One act is very good, and the other is mediocre because it lacks clarity.

The lack of clarity in the first act may have been a result of one of two things. Opening night jitters, or the actors and director did not know what to do with the opening scenes.

The relationship between Estragon (William Spear) and Vladimir (Mark Schwartz), the two tramps who are waiting for the promised appearance of Godot, does not take on any depth until Pozo (Jeffrey Josephson) and his dumb servant Lucky (Scott Kaplan), stumble on stage. It is at this point the play is given an ironic shot in the arm, ironic, because Pozo is portrayed as the least sympathetic and clearcut character in the production.

What does happen as a result of Pozo and Lucky's appearance, is that Schwartz and Spear have someone to play against, an adversary, and they use this quite well.

This impetus is carried into the second act, and Schwartz and Spear perform imaginatively and with great depth and sympathy. We see these two tramps who are waiting futilely for the appearance of the probably non-existent Godot, take on more human dimension.

Estragon is childlike and spontaneous in his actions and wisdom. He reacts as a child would when life becomes too much to bear. "I'm tired," he says, and instead of going to his bed, he takes a short nap on his rock.

When Vladimir states, "What are we doing here, that is the question . . . We are waiting for Godot to come . . . We are not saints, but we have kept our appointment. How many people can boast as much?" Estragon quite innocently and wisely says, "billions."

Vladimir lets us see courage, humor, concern and affection in the face of futility. "I can't go on," he says in a cracked voice near the end of the play. But like most, he does. That is the one optimistic note in the philosophically barren landscape that Beckett sees man existing in. Nothing makes sense. There is no reason we should go on, or even stand still, but we do.

Beckett's view of man's existence is very depressing, yet he views men sympathetically, humorously, and with great affection. We are allowed to see the barren landscape and the affection in this production. No easy task.

"Waiting for Godot" will be performed today, tomorrow and Sunday and also July 18, 21, 24 and 25 at 8 p.m. in the studio theater in the Fine Arts Building.

Kennedy Girl Recuperating

DUBLIN (UPI) — Kara Kennedy, 14-year-old daughter of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who suffered a leg injury Wednesday, recuperated today at the hotel of a millionaire friend of President Nixon.

Friends of the family said Kara would spend a few days at the Waterville hotel owned by Irish-American millionaire John A. Mulcahy.

Male Baboons Are Henpecked

LOGAN, Utah (UPI) — The Gelada baboons of Ethiopia could use a men's liberation movement.

"The primary function for the male, other than the reproductive function, appeared to be breaking up quarrels between the females," reports Dr. John Crook, a reader in ethology at the University of Bristol in England.

Crook, speaking at a Utah State University symposium, said the Gelada baboons — found above the 7,000 foot level on the high plateau of Ethiopia —differed from the Eastern African nation's desert baboons, where males dominated all aspects of the harem.

"The study of the Geladas, however, showed that the female baboons determined the direction of movement for the animals and that they also ganged up on the male if he didn't do as they wished."

Marin City Election Tomorrow

Residents of public housing will go to the polls tomorrow in Marin City to select seven persons to represent them on the first popularly elected Marin City Tenants Council.

Thirteen candidates, all residents of public housing, have been certified by the Marin County Human Relations Department. They are Frank Phillips, Katie Hunt, Dorothy Jones, Ozell Gibson, Susie Edwards, Warren Alexander, Henry Crutchfield, Marie Dean, Janice Brooks, Allen Brooks, Annie Smith, Rosa Beauchamp and Ernest Small Sr.

Polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church. All Marin City public housing tenants over 18 are eligible to vote, according to Douglas Bosco of the Human Relations Department.

Supervising the election and counting ballots will be Shirley Schell of the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin, Vernon Bynum of the Marin County Housing Authority staff and Nesbit Crutchfield, selected by the Marin City Council and the Marin City Public Housing Tenants Representation Association.

The council will oversee the controversial modernization program for public housing.

The four top vote getters will be elected to two-year terms and the rest to one-year terms.

Mayor Has A Fruit Tree Farm

By NELS JOHNSON

Martin George Blinder is a man of many facets: psychiatrist, professor, lecturer, author, jazz pianist, environmentalist and San Anselmo mayor.

He's also a gentleman farmer with a taste for fruit trees, exotic tropical plants, and bizarre vegetables.

The yard that surrounds his rambling home, nestled on a hillside in the city's Idalia Park tract, is a pomologist's delight, graced by dozens of fruit-bearing trees and shrubs.

"This is a living horticultural museum," Blinder said recently, waving his hand over the one-acre parcel. "Many of these fruit trees are quite rare."

The mayor, an organic gardener who uses praying mantises rather than pesticides, said he began several years ago to cultivate trees bearing varieties of fruit not found in supermarkets.

Blinder explained that the fruit in his orchard, chosen for uncommon bouquet and flavorful taste, lacks commercial value due to unsavory appearance or short shelf life.

He has amassed 130 various fruit trees on his property, including weeping cherries, figs and several dozen varieties of apple and peach trees.

One apple tree is a mere two-feet tall, yet yields fruit so big that only one apple is required to make a pie. Other trees tower overhead.

Blinder obtains many of his exotic plants and shrubs through correspondence with fellow members of the California Rare Fruit Club, Pomona, a similar club based in the Midwest, and the Southern Fruit Growers Club. A skilled horticulturist, he develops other unique fruit trees himself.

One less-than-successful effort is a hybrid cherry-plum combining the worst qualities of both, with a fruit the size of a cherry and a pit the size of a plum. He dubbed his creation a "chump".

Blinder's garden includes a dazzling array of other exotic fruit-bearing plants. There are rare guavas and passion fruits, white blackberries and thornless blackberries, giant apricots and rare grapes.

In a nook between the wings of his home grow a dozen exotic tropical plants, including a banana tree, a macadamia nut tree and a cereman, a plant that sprouts a corncob-shaped fruit with a taste similar to pineapple.

Why is Martin G. Blinder a plant freak?

"If I leave an epitaph, I'd like to leave these trees," he said. "They are tremendously rewarding."

Tomales Bay Resort Plan Turned Down Second Time

Herbert H. Angress, who has been battling public agencies for five years to build on his 22-acre site one mile north of Marshall, got only three of the 10 votes he needed for a permit.

The action was a rare rejection of a staff recommendation, which had urged approval of a scaled-down version if the Legislature does not move within 60 days to buy the land. The commission, however, backed the staff's call for quick state purchase of the land.

Angress said he will appeal the decision to the state coastal commission.

Angress said he would sell his land to the state for a park if the state "came to terms." He did not say what price he would sell for, but pointed to expenditures of $200,000 for planning and design, $30,000 in interest because of delays and $10,000 in attorneys' fees.

His $2.5 million project includes 60 condominium units, a restaurant, coffee shop and recreation building.

More than 100 persons crowded the hearing in San Rafael City Hall, most of them evidently opposed to the project. The vote came just before midnight, after almost two hours of debate on the issue.

(A spokesman for Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, reported last week that Sieroty will introduce a bill when the Legislature reconvenes Aug. 5 to allocate about $2 million to buy out Angress and Millerton and Tomasini points, also on Tomales Bay.)

Angress argued that overnight facilities are needed in West Marin, and that there is no need for the state to spend tax money to buy his land since his project would open the land to the public anyway.

The only organization to support the Angress project was the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau. It also was endorsed by a Sacramento man and a resident of Marshall.

Opposing it were the Sierra Club's Bay Chapter, Friends of the Earth, Bolinas Future Studies, Audubon Canyon Ranch and William Strauss, who was Angress's partner in an adjacent dairy until 1968. Strauss said the resort "might be a serious threat to my dairy operation."

The spokesman for Audubon Canyon Ranch said "roaming cats and dogs" from the resort would disturb the adjacent wildlife sanctuary.

He said the ranch would bait the state's interest in buying the Angress property by including Hog and Duck islands with it as additions to Tomales Bay State Park.

Connie Parrish of Friends of the Earth objected that $35-a-night accommodations were not in the public interest, but rather "an elitist, 'keep the public out unless they can afford to pay the price' operation."

She and other opponents also argued that approval of the project would open up the rest of the pastoral east shore of the bay to other commercial development.

Many other persons did not get time to speak.

Angress faces loss of his land if the project is not ready to go or bought by the state by November. His costs have been financed by a bank note on the entire 108 acres he owns, and the note expires in November, he said.

Commissioner Ellen Johnck of San Francisco moved the project be denied on the ground it threatened "a significant visual intrusion" in the area.

Noise Pollution Growth Reported

AUSTIN (AP) — "Health officials estimate the over-all loudness of environmental noise is doubling every decade," said a report from the state Department of Health.

The report said the normal person can comfortably tolerate sound levels of 80 decibels, a measure of the strength or pressure of sound.

A quiet residential area may measure 40 decibels and normal speech 60. But a busy office is typically 80, heavy city traffic 100, a discotheque 120, a jet flyover 103, power lawn mower 96, television set 70, clothes washer 78 and a rock band from 108 to 114.

Two Killed In Ambush In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Bandits firing rifles and tossing hand grenades ambushed a bus in northern Laos and killed the Australian ambassador's brother and sister-in-law, an embassy spokesman said today.

The spokesman said William Borthwick, 55, and his wife, of Victoria, Australia, died when the bandits attacked the bus about 110 miles north of Vientiane.

Tax Value Of Sonoma Land Rises

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The assessed value of taxable property in Sonoma County rose an average of 18 per cent this year, according to county Assessor Ernest L. Comalli.

The two largest increases in the county were in Cotati, where the property value rose an average of 55 per cent, and Rohnert Park, where it increased 54 per cent. Petaluma showed a 15 per cent increase.

Some land in Sonoma, especially coastal lots, actually decreased in value, Comalli said. He attributed the drop to the passage of proposition 20, the coastal development control initiative.

The estimated full cash value of all taxable land in Sonoma is now $3.1 billion, a $450 million increase over last year.

Suit Claims Bank Lost A Deposit

The last that Novato restaurateur Israel Vilner saw of his $7,976, it was disappearing into the night deposit vault of Crocker Bank.

But the predawn deposit last December never found its way to his bank statement, Vilner claimed in a Marin Superior Court suit.

When he went back to the bank a few days later to have the money credited to his account, bank officials said they knew nothing about it, the suit said.

Vilner, operator of the Octopus restaurant, 7416 Redwood Highway, asked the court to tell Crocker to give him the money, plus 7 per cent interest and attorney's fees.

The suit was filed by Novato attorney John A. Trumbull.

Lee Radziwill Being Divorced

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Lee Radziwill, younger sister of Jaqueline Kennedy Onassis, is being sued for divorce, court sources said yesterday.

They said Prince Stanislas Radziwill's petition appeared yesterday on a list of divorce cases to be heard in court.

Princess Radziwill, 40, married the Polish-born pince in 1959. It was Radziwill's third marriage and her second. They have two children.

Princess Radziwill now lives in New York.

Access To Shoreline Proposed As A Right

Public access to the ocean shoreline should be made a legal right of all Californians, the staff of the North Central Coast Regional Commission proposed yesterday.

Specifically, the state Legislature should declare that beach areas up to the line of first vegetation are public commons, it said. Disputed current law generally limits public access to the wet sand subject to tidal action, but the staff proposal would extend access to dry sand areas and adjacent uplands.

Such legislation should be modeled after a Texas law which created a legal presumption that all tidelands areas from mean high tide to the line of vegetation have a public easement on them to allow access to state-owned tidelands, the staff said.

The public easement should extend 200 feet inland if no vegetation exists, it added.

The staff made the proposal in the fifth of a series of reports to guide the commission's work on a master plan for the coastal zone. Hearings on the latest report will be held next week.

The staff also suggested that some areas may be so fragile that the number of visitors to them will have to be limited.

Other policies suggested by the staff included a ban on further filling or dredging of wetlands for marinas. Boating needs instead should be accommodated in natural harbors and by expanding existing facilities, it said.

The staff also called for building a trail system along the entire coast for hiking, bicycling and horseback riding, creating educational and historic preserves, protecting archaeological sites, developing scenic roads, planning for recreational vehicles and increasing funds for recreation.

Public hearings on the report, all at 7:30 p.m., will be held Monday at the Bank of Marin, Larkspur; Tuesday at the Santa Rosa Public Library and Wednesday at First Unitarian Church, San Francisco. The commission itself will hear the report July 25 and Aug. 8.

Two earlier staff reports on "coastal land environment" and "appearance and design" will be discussed and possibly adopted by the commission when it meets at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in Novato Public Library.

North Central Coast Regional Commission Also:

SEA RANCH — Denied a claim of exemption from commission regulations sought by the Sea Ranch, a 52,00-acre residential development on the Sonoma coast. The project, still largely undeveloped, is trying to avoid commission controls, and its builders vowed a court fight if the state commission upholds the denial, which was recommended by the attorney general's office.

COAST GUARD — Approved sewage facilities to serve the Coast Guard's housing complex at Point Reyes Station. Several persons objected the system's aeration pond could fail in a major earthquake.

INVERNESS PARK — Approved an application by James and Ruth Lockhart to divided a 29-acre parcel on Drake's Summit Drive, Inverness Park, into two parcels of 19 and 10 acres.

RESIGNATION — Received the resignation of commissioner Johnck, who was attending her first session since February.

22-Year-Old Isn't Talked Out Of Plunge

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "My parents are in New York. And I love them. I wouldn't want them to be hurt."

The voice was that of a young woman who phoned the coroner's office and asked if her name must be listed as a suicide if she jumped off the Golden Gate Bridge.

A woman employee at the coroner's office tried to talk the woman out of jumping from the span but all she said was: "There's no way out. I don't even know why I'm depressed."

The conversation took place Tuesday night. The Coast Guard yesterday recovered the body of Susan Gulker, 22, no permanent address in the Bay Area.

Pope Improving

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI, who canceled a general audience Wednesday because of an aching knee, is all right today, Vatican spokesman Federico Alessandrini said.

Budget Set By Chamber Tops Income

Billie Garl, executive secretary, said expenditures are $17,300 in administrative costs, $7,450 in operating costs and $2,200 for promotion.

The revenue, $15,000 in dues, $10,400 from the city business license tax revenue, $300 in interest and $250 from miscellaneous activity, will be short and directors will seek ways to make up the deficit, she said.

Directors also adopted a work program for the year including working with the city on revision of the sign ordinance, encouraging the public to make suggestions in improving retail business and having representatives attend meetings of homeowner groups.

Belvedere Open House Scheduled

An open house will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday at a home in Belvedere which a group of residents want the city to buy as a recreation center.

Shirley Backen of the Belvedere Parks and Recreation Commission said the event is designed to give residents a chance to view the home, known as the Fleming house. It was built in 1914 and has a tennis court, swimming pool and garden on 1.12 acres at 29 Golden Gate Avenue.

Earlier this summer, a group of Belvedere residents made a down payment on the property when owners, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fleming Jr., put it up for sale. The group now has until July 17 to arrange financing for the house.

They hope that the city meanwhile will decide it wants the home and will buy it from the group.

Mrs. Backen said a letter has been sent to residents urging them to contact the parks and recreation commission if they are interested in the house and asking for gifts to the city marked for purchase of the property.

Latest Round In Carpenter Talks Collapses

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — There is no end in sight of the 26-day-old carpenters strike against heavy construction firms in 46 counties following the collapse of the latest round of talks.

The negotiations, first after several weeks, ended abruptly yesterday when carpenter negotiators rejected an offer as "virtually the same" as accepted recently by home builder carpenters.

A contractor spokesman said the new stalemate came as a surprise since the offer was made to meet a workers' demand of parity with the home building carpenters.

Last Confederate General Casualty

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maj. Gen. William H. C. Whiting, a native of Biloxi, Miss., was the last Confederate general to become a combat fatality.

Whiting was wounded and captured at Fort Fisher in January, 1865. He was transferred to Fort Columbus Prison in New York, where he subsequently died.

Nudism Should Be Private Activity

The proposed use of 14-acre Faude Park in San Anselmo for nude sun-bathing ran up against overwhelming public opposition and was properly laid to rest.

The huge turnout at the city council meeting and the intensity of the objections indicate that public opinion in Marin, while it may be trending toward increased tolerance of the right of self expression in dress and behavior, is not about to accept nudity in a public park so close to centers of population.

RESIDENTS OF the neighborhood were particularly incensed by the manner in which the subject came up for a decision — the circulation of a private memo to fellow councilmen by Mayor Martin G. Blinder and the less than forthright agenda description of the subject matter. It was an attempt to couch a hot issue in vague terms, quietly open the park to nudism, and confront the public with an accomplished fact rather than a proposal. It got the kind of crushing renunciation it deserved.

Several citizens who attended the overflow meeting commended the Independent-Journal for publicizing the meeting for what it was so that those interested could appear and express themselves.

"Had it not been for your article in the newspaper, many of us would not have known the "nude" proposal was on the council schedule and would not have been able to offer their objections to it," wrote one resident.

The message expressed at the Faude Park hearing is clear: Sunning or swimming in the nude belongs in the privacy of the individual home or on private lands and not on public property that must necessarily be open to all taxpayers who support and maintain the park or beach.

RESTRICTING SUCH activity to private, secluded property has obvious advantages. Participants can be limited by the property owner through membership and/or fees. This in turn would help eliminate the curiosity seekers who would flock to any public park, adding to problems of maintenance, traffic control and possibly crime.

Those who see a valid recreational need for communing with nature in the nude would be among others with similar interests, and their idea of fun and recreation need not be flaunted in the face of those whose sensibilities would be hurt. There would be little or no chance that hikers or picnicking families with children would venture into a private club to be confronted by activity they might consider distasteful.

PUBLIC ACCEPTANCE of standards of behavior do change, but until the people are ready to accept nudity with the same tolerance they have shown toward the mini and the bikini, proposals for sunnydipping at public expense are out of line.

Public Health Board Should Be Re-Instated

By EARL G. WATERS

Among the measures of great importance to the public which were left dangling as the legislature rushed to do two years work in the two weeks before recessing for the summer, is a bill to re-establish a state public health board.

The board, in existence for 103 years, was a victim of an overambitious reorganization plan launched by some geniuses, unschooled in government operations, brought together by the Reagan administration. As often happens, such committees seek "efficiency" and overlook the checks and balances essential in protecting the public against autocratic administrators.

IN THEIR ZEAL for efficiency the reorganizers proposed the elimination of some 120 boards and commissions. Some were regulatory and others were advisory. Those which overlapped or duplicated probably should have been phased out along with some which were merely advisory. But caught in the sweep was the Public Health Board, whose members, appointed by the governor, were medical men of stature. They served for token pay, hardly covering their expenses let alone their time.

The board was charged with the adoption of regulations to protect the public health and dealt with matters, mostly so technical that only those trained in medical sciences understood their import. Nevertheless, the laws they passed had the same authority as those enacted by the legislature with the governor's approval.

ELIMINATION OF the board has placed this awesome power for lawmaking in the hands of the Director of Health who can now adopt laws, not subject to anyone's review and without even a public hearing. In opposing the board's abolition, Dr. F. Harold Johnson, M.D., a board member, declared "There is a need for an appointive board because government is too unresponsive and such a board would ensure that bureaucracy would be accountable."

Another board member, Dr. William C. Herrick, M.D., explained "That by this mechanism the people of California will have something to say (about regulations) rather than one individual having everything to say." And Dr. Louis F. Saylor, M.D., a former director of the department, came out in full support of a board "with entire regulatory responsibilities for the whole field of health. As a long time bureaucrat, both in federal and state service, I share your suspicions of the bureaucratic ingenuity and ability to think through a problem to the best interest of everyone concerned."

WHEN THE LEGISLATURE woke up to the fact that the powers they had given to a board were now being shifted to one man, they reacted. A bill creating a new Commission on Health was sponsored by Assemblyman Gene Chappie, a Republican, and Senate President Pro Tem James Mills and Senator George Moscone, both Democrats.

Still, in the face of the advice of his medical peers and the formidable opposition of the legislature, Dr. Earl Brian, the young physician who Reagan had named to head the mammoth Health and Welfare Agency persisted in his desire to be free of a regulatory board and resisted the Chappie bill. Brian's departure to launch an unsuccessful attempt at elective office, cleared the way and the Chappie bill moved through the Assembly and the Senate policy committee but got hung up in Senate Finance where it lies dormant.

THE ISSUE REMAINS. Should the legislature in delegating lawmaking powers, permit such power to rest in the hands of one man? Or should those powers be vested in a board composed of members selected so as to provide broad, diverse and expert judgment in regulating public health matters?

Grateful To Those Who Saved Pet Dog

Last Thursday evening, when we returned from a Fourth of July family picnic, our dog, Max, was not at home. He walks our road and the nearby Dipsea Steps, but he never is very far away and never stays out over night. Naturally, we were very concerned about him and went looking for him early Friday morning.

About 10 a.m. we received a call from Battalion Chief Stephen H. Bogel of the Sausalito Fire Department saying that Max was at his station. Max had been brought there by a man who had found him running frantically along the free way near the Strawberry Shopping Center. This gentleman, who was on his way to the heliport, picked him up and took him all the way into Sausalito.

The man did not leave his name at the fire department so we cannot thank him personally. We hope that he will see this letter and know how grateful we are for his extremely kind and caring actions. Also, our sincere thanks to Chief Bogel, Mrs. Camillo Russo, fire department secretary, and the men of the Sausalito Fire Department who cared enough about a small, raggedy-looking little dog, to comfort him and to see that he came back home again.

Author Takes Issue With Book Review

On June 1 a review of my book "All Together!" was printed under the name of reviewer Joan Lisetor. Unfortunately, the review was largely negative and innacurate. Also, the reviewer raised a question about the meaning of one passage in the book.

In the interest of accuracy and clarity, I hope you will print this reply.

First, the book was not "an attempt to explain Transactional Analysis to the layman." That has been done in such books as "Introduce Yourself to TA" by Campos and McCormick. "All Together!" is meant to be a "middle range" book on TA; there are many more complex books on the subject.

Secondly, Berne's efforts went far beyond "an attempt to clarify . . . Freud." Those attempts have also been made by many writers. Berne's contribution was to set up a new system.

Thirdly, she chose a chapter "Ta for Women and Minorities" to question. Admittedly, the ideas could have been expanded and developed. However, it was meant to raise consciousness and to stimulate thinking. It is my personal way of using TA ideas. To explain further, we need to avoid the cliches and emotional reactions now used by minority groups and by majority groups. We need to feel OK about ourselves and about people different from ourselves. That may be novel, but it is also true, and the essence of TA.

Personnel Department Shows Ineptness Of Administrator

The following from the report (final report of the 1973-74 Marin Grand Jury) has to do with the relationship between personnel department and the administrator:

"The personnel department has no clear written statement of what its functions or goals are. There is confusion as to whether the department should operate as a service or enforce personnel policy. Authority is divided between the administrator and the personnel commission causing confusion when those two authorities disagree."

The report recommends: "Clearly establish the functional responsibility of the personnel department, its relationship to the administrator and the personnel commission and approve a set of performance measurements and related goals."

THERE IS NO QUESTION that the condition they present exists. The point I wish to make is this — That department has been under the administrator for years and is a pat example of the ineptness of the administrator's office. The throne room guys play politics with the situation, and with so many other things they indicate when they are not interested.

There is every evidence the same condition was found a number of times under the umbrella of the administrator's office. Yet they are strongly urging that the whole schmere be put under his baton. Somebody's just nuts me thinks.

In the report is a constant nudging toward "Charter" — the word will appear without any connection to the theme of the moment. Some sort of psychology?

LET'S SEE JUST what would be gained? In my opinion, nothing. On the contrary you would lose the fine rapport that has developed over the years between the taxpayers and the elected department heads.

There are two ordinances covering the office of administrator. When we canceled the first one, we were forced to keep it in limbo until we held an election. As you know this election was blocked. For some strange reason, as far as I know, it never was rescinded, but a new one, pretty much identical, was passed. The first gave him 10 days to demand a hearing, were he to be fired. The second one gives him six months.

THEY BOTH PURPORT to give the administrator complete control over all employees, both elected and appointed.

Then each has this disclaimer — "Nothing in this ordinance is intended to in any way restrict the elected officials from carrying out their constitutional duties." (This quote is from memory and is essentially correct).

It has been pretty well believed that the personnel department was about as ineffective as it could be. The salaries however have been more than satisfactory.

They made a big splash relative to the data processing department but the waves are non existent now. Perhaps, with the stock market like it is they are busy trying to determine how to invest the recent tenner raise — who knows?

I think tomorrow I will have some numbers for you to ponder over.

WILL ROGERS SAYS . . .

"The mayor of New York called in a hundred prominent citizens to discuss 'graft' with him. A man naturally wouldn't call in 100 poor men to discuss graft, as they would have no technical knowledge of the subject.

"These 100 met and adjourned without adopting any resolution to either halt or increase it. It seemed everybody was satisfied as it is." September 14, 1930.

Tide Of Sentiment Turns In Favor Of The President

WHERE INPEACHMENT STANDS TODAY. An impeachment vote in the House is possible, a guilty verdict by the Senate is improbable, and right now the trend seems more favorable to President Nixon then any time in recent weeks.

The tide of sentiment among Republicans in the House of Representatives is moving toward the President. There is a growing consensus that, unless there is clear evidence of an impeachable crime, they won't vote for impeachment. Few of them see such evidence so far. Also, the partisan leaks by the House Judiciary Committee are consolidating Republican opposition.

WHAT COULD CHANGE THE OUTLOOK? Two developments could divide the Republicans:

If the Supreme Court rules that the President must turn over the 64 additional taped conversations and if these tapes reveal culpability.

If Mr. Nixon refuses to obey the Supreme Court. Such a course would make a House vote for impeachment and a Senate vote for removal a near certainty.

THE OTHER SIDE OF INFLATION. Understandably most Americans are more conscious of the rise in prices they pay than the rise in income they receive. On this point the Census Bureau reports:

—The number of Americans living below the poverty level of $4,300 a year for a family of four — 1 out of 9 — decreased by 1.5 million last year.

BLACKS ARE RETURNING TO THE SOUTH. For decades the migration of impoverished blacks was nearly all one way — from Southern farms to Northern cities. Recently there has been a substantial reverse migration, and latest figures show that more blacks are returning to the South than leaving.

There are many reasons: The end of the dual school system; Southern industrialization with more jobs for blacks and whites, and a rising investment in better public education. Many blacks say they like the mental climate of the South better and find less crime.

On the 10th anniversary of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger noted that "some of the greatest gains in the desegregation of schools and the election of minority officials have taken place in the South, and some of the most difficult remaining problems are concentrated in Northern cities."

SUEZ CANAL—BOON OR WHITE ELEPHANT. To Egypt it doesn't matter. Reopening the Suez is a political, not an economic, decision. With U.S. and British technical help, the canal — the 100-mile waterway from the Mediterranean to the Red Sea — will be ready for use in about a year. It will take another six years for the Egyptians to enlarge it for supertankers.

But the supertankers are being built constantly larger, and the advantages of the Suez shortcut became less and less.

RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF THE MEDIA. The Supreme Court unanimously held that a citizen does not have the legal right to require a newspaper to print his reply to an attack.

But shouldn't the media do voluntarily what it should not and cannot be compelled to do legally? Shouldn't the "right of reply" be a moral right to be honored and practiced? Freedom of the press, yes. Fairness by the press, why not?

Dr. Stein Says Taxpayers Responsible For Inflation

WASHINGTON — Hang down your head, John Public, and take your spanking like a little man. Dr. Stein has assessed the situation and decided it is all your fault, and not only must you endure his tongue-lashing today but you must be prepared to suffer for your sins at least another three or four years.

By that time, both Herbert Stein and the Administration he serves will be safely out of town.

Stein makes $42,500 a year of the taxpayers' money in his role as chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers (CEA). In this job he obviously is supposed to be the President's key adviser on economic strategy who figures out why we have inflation or depression, or both at once, and what to do about them.

NOW HE FINALLY has figured out why. It is because we taxpayers insist on opposing tax increases. And with all the money we therefore have left after our scandalously low taxes, we go out and buy things at ridiculously high prices.

This thinking does not come from an out-of-town dilettante in government economics, one of those familiar corporation grandees come to Washington to give his wife a couple of years' thrills meeting the First Lady and hostessing parties for jet-set ambassadors.

Stein started in 1938, during the New Deal, in the years when economic intervention by government was at its all-time height of fashion. He knows the federal alphabet sideways, having served with the Fire Department Instructors' Conference (FDIC), the National Defense Advisory Commission (WW II) (NDAC), the War Production Board (WW II) (WPB) and the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion (OWMR) before going to the Committee for Economic Development (CED) and Brookings Institution, whence he came to the CEA when Mr. Nixon entered office.

BUT THE CORE of his three dozen career years was with the private CED, which is sponsored by big business. After 22 years there, he came in with the Republicans of the 1960s as a throwback to the French physiocrats of the 1700s, a contemporary laissez-faire economist. The physiocrats believed government should keep its hands completely off trade and the economy; Stein would not take us all the way back to that point, but his advice is rendered in their spirit.

WHEN INFLATION inexorably made Mr. Nixon's 1968 campaign speeches look foolish, over advisers pushed for wage-and-price controls. For more than 18 months, Stein argued against them. A workable incomes policy, he declared, is a wisp of imagination like "a good five-cent cigar or a nonfattening fudge sundae."

In August, 1971, the President gave in to former Texas Gov. John Connally and others and clapped on wage-and-price controls overnight. Stein was a key man in tuning them although philosophically he continued to oppose them. At the end of Phase 1 and Phase 2, when the rate of inflation was down noticeably, Stein was made chairman of the CEA and undertook an effort much more to his taste — the removal of the controls which had only begun to take effect.

Since the start of Phase 3 18 months ago, through 3½ and 4 and the abandonment of all controls three months ago, prices have shot upward at rates unprecedented in modern peacetime. To report the inflation encountered every day at the supermarket, gasoline station and bank is sadly repetitious.

SO NOW DR. STEIN has exposed himself to questioning on television and, when the subject of inflation somehow came up, he said that because voters were against tax increases over the past decade, the people rather than the government are responsible for it. He said we were going to have to do penance by disciplining ourselves to accept tight money and other such restrictions for "years, not months — that is, three or four years, more or less indefinitely."

Presidential impeachment possibilities aside, the march of normal events would take Stein off the spot before we thus finish paying for our foolishness. But he is taking no chances. He is scheduled to leave at th end of the summer to become a professor at the University of Virginia.

No Nixon Reference In Warren Documents

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The first glimpse of Earl Warren's public papers yesterday showed few, if any, references to Richard M. Nixon and outlined a political intelligence operation in Warren's 1950 gubernatorial campaign.

For the first time, newsmen had a chance to pore over some of the thousands of documents filed by Warren with the California State Archives for the period from 1930-53.

Archivist David L. Snyder, who organized the material in the 1960s, said it once contained a file bearing Nixon's name.

But he said he found the file folder empty and discarded it.

Warren once had a cool relationship with Nixon as the result of what Warren and his advisers believed was an effort by Nixon in 1952 to undermine a presidential bid by Warren.

About 400 cardboard boxes of Warren's documents compiled while he was Alameda County district attorney, state attorney general and governor were made available to the public yesterday.

Snyder said another 1750-200 boxes of unprocessed private Warren material were still being withheld.

Most of the documents revealed were routine and trivial. There were more than 30 copies of letters thanking individuals for congratulatory messages on Warren's designation as a 33rd degree Mason, one to a Lodi police chief thanking him for a present of tokay grapes and another thanking a lobbyist for a gift of wine at Christmas.

The effort to gather information on Roosevelt in 1950 was directed by Verne Scoggins, Warren's former press secretary.

Sun Flares Move Out Of Earth View

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — A major flare-producing area of the sun has rotated out of the view of Earth and will continue to deteriorate, according to National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration scientists.

NOAA officials said yesterday the area spun out of view after producing 11 major x-class flares which resulted in severe disturbances of the Earth's magnetic field.

Bicentennial Fleet Needs Steel

By RALPH HUBLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Many a grand plan for a nationwide observance of the American Revolution bicentennial is grounded in the shallows of financial embarrassment.

But funding isn't always the problem. The Bicentennial Fleet has promise of financial support, but is blocked by a metal barrier — allocation of enough steel to build it.

According to Gault Davis, a marketing consultant who prepared a feasibility and action plan for the American Bicentennial Fleet, organizers have begun to search for steel overseas since U.S. sources are not available. A representative for the project now is in London seeking this steel. Quite a lot will be needed. The fleet would be made up of floating pavilions built on 50 barges, each nearly as long as a football field.

Five flotillas of 10 barges each are scheduled to be towed from port to port in 1976 along the three coasts of the United States, through the Great Lakes, and up and down its largest rivers. The fleet is expected to continue operations for five years, visiting 77 ports with stays ranging from several days to several weeks (see map).

In this way the Bicentennial Fleet could carry the observance of the 200th anniversary of the American Revolution to the 95 per cent of the U.S. population which lives within 200 miles of major ports.

If steel becomes available, the barges would be constructed at 18 locations around the United States : Boston; Newport, R.I.; Baltimore and Port Deposit, Md.; Norfolk, Va.; Pittsburgh; Bay City and Sturgeon Bay, Mich.; Chicago; New Orleans; Beaumont, Houston, and Galveston, Texas; San Diego and Alameda, Calif., and Vancouver, Tacoma, and Seattle, Wash.

Specifications call for the steel barges to be 15 feet deep (12 feet interior depth). This would provide reception areas below the exhibit decks and would add nearly 10,000 square feet to the 15,000 square feet of exhibit area. The below-deck space could also be used to add to the depth of displays, which could then rise nearly 50 feet under a domed superstructure.

Each flotilla of 10 barges could be adapted to the requirements of each port or riverfront. The complete exhibition could be set up overnight — service bridges in place; lights, music, and fountains operating; water-oriented activities set up in the open spaces between the pavilions; even trees and flowers lining the walkways.

Between ports, the lineup for more than a mile of the colorful floats with accompanying ships — naval and historical vessels as well as cruise ships for accommodations — should offer quite a spectacle to those gathered along the shore.

There also would be specially designed barges to be used as connecting walkways between pavilion and to piers or riverfront bulkheads. These would contain offices and facilities for supplying power and other needs.

The fleet project, approved by the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, is the largest single effort of the 200th anniversary celebration.

(The bicentennial Parks project collasped when it became obvious that Congress would decline to appropriate necessary funds. The other nationwide project, the Freedom Train, has found meager response from cities along the route when it tooted for funds, although four corporations have promised to contribute $4 million. But $8 million more is needed.)

The nationwide Bicentennial Fleet concept is sponsored by Helen Bentley, chairman of the Federal Maritime Commission. The $400-million project is relying entirely on the private sector for funding.

Soundings among industrial leaders who might be interested in sponsoring the pavilions indicate wide support although no exhibitors have been announced. However, the fleet would be self-sustaining for five years; admission charges would be $2 for adults, $1 for children, with special group rates.

Attendance projections by Economic Research Associates, known for its similar projections of world fairs and other large attractions, estimate that 171.9 million people would be attracted to the fleet, with a gross income of $347,238,000 from admissions, concessions, and exhibitor fees.

The fleet's five flotillas would be switched to different areas each season for five years during the bicentennial era. One pavilion in each flotilla would be a theater for traveling groups of performing artists and would include an exhibit of Americana. (Charges for the theater would be extra, as would food and other concessions.)

The barges would carry displays of U.S. art, culture, history, agriculture, and industry. The accent would be on education, but there would be entertainment, too. To avoid commercialism, exhibits would be required to follow one of the adopted bicentennial themes — heritage, festival, or horizons — and be controlled by a theme officer. It is estimated that participation as an exhibitor on a pavilion would cost between $60,000 to $600,000 a year, according to the type of display.

At the end of each season, the pavilions would be refurbished and perhaps dismantled for shipment by rail to another area. At the end of the five-year period, the barges would be sold, but the pavilions could be given to states or used by sponsors for their own purposes. Any fund surplus must be "used for environmental, ecological, or humanitarian purpose," according to the provisions of the organization.

The commission hopes that the Bicentennial Fleet will have some important, permanent, side effects. For example, nearly all the harbors and rivers to be visited by the fleet have elaborate cleanup plans, which have yet to be fulfilled. The coming of the fleet may give the needed impetus.

More information may be obtained by writing to American Bicentennial Fleet, 600 New Hampshire Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20037.

PLAYGROUND NEARS COMPLETION

Newly constructed playground apparatus at Boyle Park in Mill Valley awaist an onslaught of children and the young-at-heart. The playground — already in limited use, though to be officially opened in two weeks — features climbing columns, spiral and chute slides, cargo and net bridge, fire poles and sand. The Mill Valley Jaycees helped the city staff build the project. It was financed by the Jaycees, the Joseph Memorial Fund and the city at a cost of $7,000. The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Department operates the facility.

FOLLOW THE LEADER — Youngsters Shaun Beattie and Libby Haxton take their chances on the tortuous curves of the park's spiral slide. Their feelings about the ride are evident.

YOUNG AT HEART — Dr. A. Alan Weber of Mill Valley balances himself on the running log — "a log that spins" — while exercising. Dr. Weber aptly demonstrated that the new playground offers something for the young of all ages.

Rash Of Deaths Feared

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Department of Industrial Relations yesterday expressed fear that if the present death rate continues there may be an "epidemic" of workers dying through contact with high voltage power lines.

Richard Wilkins, chief of safety for the department, said nine California workers have been electrocuted in the first five months of the year, compared to a total of 13 for 1973.

Students Testing Food For Its Responsibility In Acne

Is acne caused or aggravated by chocolate, fried foods, nuts, colas, dairy products, and iodized salt? A recent study refutes this idea which has been around for many decades.

The six-year study conducted by Dr. Philip C. Anderson of the University of Missouri School of Medicine involved students with acne who volunteered to participate in the survey. Those selected were students who were certain that food caused the acne.

Eight or 10 of every 100 students questioned blamed chocolate for their acne; three or four of every 100 students blamed nuts, colas, or milk.

THESE INDIVIDUALS were convinced that they got more pimples or blackheads within 36 hours after they ate the prohibited food. The acne worsened in direct proportion to the amount of taboo foods eaten. Some students stated that the acen flare-up lasted as long as five days after the offender was ingested.

About eight students who had a skin reaction to the same foods reported daily to the clinic where they were given large amounts of the prohibited foods. Each day they were reexamined.

Before the test, the facial appearance of each student was mapped so that all acne lesions could be counted, located, and graded as to size and depth. These onion skin records were filed and compared with subsequent facial maps.

DEPENDING ON the foods implicated, these students were given (under supervision) chocolate bars, milk, roasted peanuts (sprinkled with iodized salt), or cola beverages. The aim was to produce the skin lesions with the foods causing the acne.

The results were amazing. First, there were no flare-ups of the acne. Only one-third of the subjects developed new lesions during the 10-day experiment. However, this was considered par for the course. About half of the students showed some improvement.

Future studies may help to determine the effects of coffee, tea, ice cream, spices, iodides, alcohol, and fried foods on acne. And do tension, fatigue, loss of sleep, indigestion, or other changes aggravate acne.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

RAYNAUD'S SYNDROME

B. A. writes: The six or seven doctors I've consulted all say I have Raynaud's syndrome. The only advice I've received is to quit smoking. Do you know of any cure? I've had it for four years.

REPLY

Raynaud's syndrome varies in severity and, like many other circulatory disorders, is controllable, but not curable. Wearing warm clothes, including heavy hose and gloves, may be all that is needed when the disease is mild. Avoiding tobacco will help. So will drugs that dilate the blood vessels, including phenoxybenzamine, tolazoline, and sioxsuprine.

GERM FIGHTER

B. L. writes: Is gamma globulin the body's germ fighter?

REPLY

Yes. The protein elements of the blood are found in the germ fighting cells.

Vandalism Is Serious In Lagunitas Schools

Supt. Harry F. Roche told the board that more and more windows are being broken all the time. In one night last week, for example, nine windows in one school and 11 in another were smashed, he reported.

Roche said trustees agreed to install a special alarm system at San Geronimo School in an effort to deal with the problem.

The Lagunitas School District board also:

FUNDS — Learned that the district will receive more than $46,000 in 1974-75 for state and federal programs, including $28,945 for early childhood education, $17,152 for Title 1 reading and math programs and $626 in federal funds for library materials.

SALARIES — Offered the district's 27 certificated employees, including Roche, 10 per cent salary increases for 1974-75 and the employees' associations accepted the proposals. The increases will cost the district about $42,000 per year, the superintendent said.

TELEVISION REVIEW

News Retrospective Series First Show Is A Letdown

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — It's been said that those who disregard the past are bound to repeat it. In TV, they're bound to repeat the past for those who disregarded it or missed it. This can be a good thing.

But wilkies, why must CBS start its second "CBS News Retrospective" season this Sunday with a documentary so stupifyingly dull it may frighten viewers away from the series' next 12 Sabbath offerings?

The hour-long opus in question is "Resources for Freedom." It first aired at 3 p.m., Jan. 10, 1954, was anchored by the late Edward R. Murrow, and concerned a 1½-year study of the nation's resources by the President's Materials Policy Commission.

Rerunning the show and briefly comparing its 20-year forecasts with current realities may have seemed a fine idea, particularly at a time we seem to be short on almost every natural resource but wind.

Alas, and with full acknowledgement that the art of documentary-making was in its infancy in 1954, this film could well have been left to fade in the CBS vaults.

"You may get a jolt this evening to realize that although America is the land of plenty, the plenty can give out," Murrow warns at the onset.

I kept awaiting the jolt, but not even a minor tremble occurred. No question that this is due to the quantum leap TV newsmen have made in 20 years in the techniques of enlivening the dullest subject.

But the leap makes it awfully hard, for example, to sit still as a commission member goes on about taconite ore.

Despite this, don't dismiss the series. Some coming shows are excellent, including the controversial "Hunger in America," 1968, "Murder and the Right to Bear Arms" 1964 and "Biography of a Missile" 1959.

Sunshine Theater Is Built On Enthusiasm Of Youthful Director

By MARK LITTMAN

Edward Decker sprang from his seat in the San Rafael High School auditorium and began mimicking the motley group of youthful actors dancing on stage, his fluid movements and tempered voice coaxing the desired response.

"Come alive," the 18-year-old director exhorted the youths, members of Sunset Players, a new San Rafael-based theater group. "Be involved . . ." Decker continued, nervously pacing his lanky frame up and down the aisle.

Decker was a blur of energy as he concentrated on the players, particularly Cece Garrison, 23, of San Rafael, a black girl who is cast in the leading role.

"I like new faces," Decker remarked, "I never hesitate to cast able performers in roles regardless of race or size."

It was his frustration with directing the same familiar actors while a member of the drama club at San Rafael High School that led to Decker's attempt to branch out for fresh talent.

Advertising by pamphlet and by word of mouth, Decker gathered a group of 35 actors, choreographers, musicians and stage technicians, mainly Marin high school and college students to form the theater group last April.

Their first production, "Half-a-Sixpence," a musical-comedy based on "Kipps," a story by H.G. Wells was performed three weeks ago at the high school before three full houses.

"We're staging musicals now because people want to view something light that they can get involved in," Decker commented, adding.

"We're trying to present a different picture to the audience by rotating our players and in our selection of plays, otherwise they could just as well stay home and watch Clark Gable movies."

An accomplished actor who has performed in school productions since the seventh grade, Decker found the transition to directing somewhat difficult. "I'm 18 and when I encounter persons older than me, it's hard to assure them that I know what I'm doing," Decker said."

He admitted the players' first production was plagued by a series of disaters ranging from problems in scheduling rehearsals to musician boycotts but says "Mame" has jelled the members into a group.

The players rehearse 19 hours a week Monday through Friday nights in preparation for the opening of "Mame," but Decker says there's been no tension.

"I personally enjoy what I'm doing," Decker said, "and I don't make it so rough that the players don't enjoy it also."

Torn between the love of both acting and directing, Decker hasn't yet committed himself to either endeavor, but says he'll continue directing the theater company in the fall.

He'll attend San Francisco State University next semester and will major in drama.

One Out Of 14 Use Food Stamps

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Nearly one out of 14 Californians is enrolled in the food stamp program, the business and financial letter of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco said yesterday.

"With close to 1.5 million already participating, California leads the nation in food stamp activity," the periodical said.

"In San Francisco the ratio is about one out of eight persons. In a typical month these poverty level Californians receive 73 million food stamps valued at more than $40 million."

In the food stamp program a household pays a certain amount for an allotment of coupons having greater monetary value. The amount is determined by the size and income of the household.

The stamps are accepted by 180,000 retailers nationwide. The dealers redeem the stamps through commercial banks, which in turn deposit them at the Federal Reserve Bank.

"From a relative handful of stamps that benefited 50,000 impoverished Americans when the original pilot program was unveiled 13 years ago, food stamps have boomed into a billion-dollar business.

"By mid-1975, under present budget plans, 15.8 million Americans will be receiving stamps valued at $7.8 billion."

Word On Colson Disbarment Due

BOSTON (UPI) — A decision on whether former presidential assistant Charles Colson should be barred from practicing law in Massachusetts or otherwise be penalized was expected within the next few days.

State Supreme Court Justice Benjamin Kaplan conducted an hour-long hearing yesterday at which Colson's attorney was asked to show cause why the one-time aide to President Nixon should not be permanently disbarred, censured or suspended.

The attorney, Charles H. Morin, asked the court to withhold a decision on disbarment until Colson appears before two federal grand juries investigating Watergate. Colson is currently serving a term in federal prison.

NAILED AT THE PLATE

Minnesota catcher Glenn Borgmann looked up as umpire Larry McCoy called Cleveland's Charlie Spikes out at home in the fourth inning last night in Bloomington. Spikes had tried to score from third on a fly to center, but was nailed by the Twins' Larry Eisle.

Sharks 14, Stars 7 In Opener

"This is the best defense in the World Football League," said Asher after Thursday night's nationally-televised 14-7 victory over the New York Stars before a crowd of 59,112 in the Gator Bowl, the largest in the league's six-game history.

"Championships are built on great defense and executing the kicking game. That's what we did tonight," said Asher. "Everyone did a fine job."

With the score tied 7-7, Mike Lassiter blocked a punt by New York's Robbie Reynolds on the Stars' 34-yard line, scooped up the ball and ran it to the seven-yard line.

Sharks' back Tommy Durrance took a handoff from quarterback Kay Stephenson, and fumbled the ball into the end zone. O.Z. White pounced on the ball for the winning touchdown with 2:02 left in the game.

The Sharks opened the scoring with 5:47 left in the second quarter after a scoreless first quarter. Alvin Wyatt took a kickoff on his own 13 and scampered 87 yards up the sideline for the touchdown.

New York put together what appeared a sure scoring drive early in the second quarter, but Jacksonville held the Stars on fourth down at the two yard line to take over the ball.

"Our inability to score on the two yard line killed us," said Parilli. "I'd still go for it again, though."

A main transformer blew out during the halftime show, plunging the stadium into darkness and delaying the start of the second half about 10 minutes until around 11 p.m.

Effort To Break Standstill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negotiators for the striking pro football players and the NFL owners returned to the bargaining table with a federal mediator today, mainly to find out whether they even have basis for talking to each other.

The 10 a.m. session at the office of mediator James Scearce was the first get-together for the two sides since talks broke off June 26. There was no indication that any progress toward a settlement was in sight.

The NFL Players Association went on strike July 1 and veterans have thrown up picket lines at 10 pre-season training camps that have opened thus far and compelled cancellation of the traditional game between the College All-Stars and the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins in Chicago July 26.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the Players Association, went into the new rounds of talks, skeptical that much could be accomplished unless the owners' Management Council was prepared to make substantial counter-offers to the players' 63 contract demands.

However, Garvey has signalled that his side is willing to discuss money issues with the owners before tackling the so-called "freedom demands" the association is presenting. The latter, which would give players broad new scope to decide which teams they would play with and even veto trades, have been the major stumbling block in the dispute.

"I'm hopeful there'll be some sort of sign of a counter-offer," Garvey said of the situation. "If there is, maybe there can be some movement and meaningful discussion."

Scearce indicated that he was dealing with the deadlock on a day-at-a-time basis and said he had called the two sides together to find out if they were ready to bargain again. The cancellation of the All-Star game with the Dolphins suggested there might be leverage to get the talks off dead center.

But the dialogue between the striking players and owners sharpened during the week. Wellington Mara, president of the New York Giants and chairman of the Management Council, charged the union had "claimed another innocent victim" in bringing about cancellation of the annual contest.

Garvey has promised the union would raise $100,000 as a donation to Chicago Tribune Charities, sponsor of the game, and would chip in another $100,000 if the owners failed to match the contribution.

LINING UP — Gary Player, backed by his caddy Alfred Dyer, lined up a putt on the third green yesterday in the British Open. Player bogeyed the hole, but went on to a round of three-under-par 68.

Luncheon A Success Despite The Strike

It was like one big happy family. Jokes were being told and there were smiles and some full fledged laughter. One would never have known labor and management were in the midst of a strike in which the gap gets wider rather than narrower each day.

The occasion was the 49ers annual Kickoff Luncheon yesterday at the Fairmont Hotel. Defensive back Mel Phillips received the 1973 Len Eshmont Award and linebacker Dave Wilcox was welcomed to the team's 10-Year Club.

Perhaps it was because of the strike, but more than the usual number of 49ers were on hand to watch their teammates collect their awards. It certainly wasn't just the chance to get a free lunch. Eighteen of the veteran players were scattered around the premises. That number included the four who will be jumping to the new World Football League for the 1975 season, Ted Kwalick, John Isenbarger and Jim Sniadecki headed for Honolulu and Dick Witcher under contract with the Southern California Sun.

FORMER 49ER PLAYER Gordy Soltau was the master of ceremonies and referred to the upcoming season as being "somewhat in debate." He also credited the players for keeping "pro football in the limelight through the off season."

S.F. Mayor Joseph Alioto shed some light on the strike issue when he gave a short speech. He said, "We have been getting bad information about the real cause of the players strike. The real reason of the strike? The ball players are holding out for the same pay scale as street sweepers in San Francisco."

Alioto said it would be a shame for the strike to force cancellation of the Youth Bowl exhibition game, against Denver Aug. 18, since $223,000 has been raised the last two years "and every cent has been used for the benefit of youth in San Francisco."

Alioto also volunteered his services: "I would be happy to mediate in the strike." I doubt very much his offer will be taken up.

Although he has little to smile about, Nolan did his best to give his usual optimistic pre-season report designed to send everybody home thinking that THIS will be the 49ers' year.

Nolan promised the team would be "different and exciting" this year with Steve Spurrier and Joe Reed at quarterback. It was strange to not hear a mention about John Brodie, but those days are over, my friend.

Phillips was presented his award by John Winston, his old high school coach from Selby, N.C. who described the all-black school as small, with perhaps 50 boys in grades 9 through 12 when Phillips was there. That didn't leave much to choose from when football season rolled around.

THE LUNCHEON DIDN'T seem much different than the 49er Kickoff Luncheons of past years. I waited for the players to stage some kind of demonstration, possibly a sign or two demanding their freedom from the tyranny of owners and commissioner Pete Rozelle. Perhaps 49er president Lou Spadia would denounce the players as greedy pigs. Maybe there would be a shouting match between the workers and the bosses. But none of this happened. It was all orderly. Everybody was on his best behavior.

I don't think those smiles told the real story of the strike. The real story will be when the 49er players put up a picket line Saturday at start of the team's Santa Barbara training camp.

Holtzman In Bid For 10th Win

Holtzman was 21-13 with a 2.97 earned run mark in 1973, but is 9-10 this season with an earned run mark of 3.78. He was beaten in his last start by Baltimore after pitching five no-hit innings.

The A's have been idle the past two days, but still saw their American League West lead increase to 5½ games when Kansas City fell to New York Thursday.

Outfielder Reggie Jackson and shortstop Campy Campaneris seem assured of starting berths in that game, while Joe Rudi has an outside chance and Sal Bando figures to back up Brooks Robinson at third base for the July 23 game.

Jackson, bidding to become the first Triple Crown winner since Carl Yastrzemski in 1967, today became the first player to pass the 2,000,000 mark in votes for the July 23 All-Star game in Pittsburgh.

The slugging outfielder's .327 batting average ranked fifth going into today's action while he was tied for third in homers with 16 and was fifth in runs-batted-in with 53.

Latest figures released by the American League office show Jackson with 2,085,192 votes, placing him far ahead of runner-up Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees who is the second highest vote-getter among outfielders with 833,783.

A four-way battle between Frank Robinson of California, Detroit's Al Kaline, Oakland's Joe Rudi and Texas' Jeff Burroughs exists for the third outfield spot. With the final balloting to be announced next Monday, Robinson leads with 764,803 votes while Kaline follows at 757,448, Rudi at 726,603 and Burroughs at 696,426.

Leaders for the other positions include Dick Allen (937,511) of the Chicago White Sox at first base; Rod Carew (1,608,892) of Minnesota at second base; Brooks Robinson (940,006) of Baltimore at third base; Bert Campaneris (1,375,010) of Oakland at shortstop and Carlton Fisk (972,816) of Boston at catcher.

Giants Play Host To Philly

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants, 21 games out of first and 2½ games out of the National League West cellar, open a six-game home stand tonight against a Philadelphia team fighting for the National League East lead.

Thursday's day of rest was invaluable for the Giants who not only are nursing some key injuries, but also had to make a three-hour bus trip from Montreal to Burlinton, Vt., after Wednesday night's game. The Giants wanted to get home right after the game and Montreal's airport shuts down at 10 p.m.

John D'Acquisto (7-7) will get the nod for the Giants tonight against the Phils' Dick Ruthven (3-7), who hails from Sacramento and starred at Fresno State.

But the key test will come Friday when Mike Caldwell (7-3) works for the Giants. It will be the first start since June 6 for Caldwell, who has a possible spur or chip on his left elbow and may require surgery.

Silva pitched the first four innings, striking out five and walking two. Vadon pitched the final three innings, fanning four and walking two.

Southern Marin broke the game open in the second inning with a 12-run assault, sending 16 batters to the plate. The first 11 batters in the inning all reached base and all scored.

In Novato American's victory, Ernie Galliani pitched a three-hitter and got three hits himself. Kris Donaldson, Matt Listman, Phil Sorenson and Galliani had 11 hits between them.

Tony Gurales tossed a two-hit shutout and struck out five in Central Marin's victory. Jim Connor and Ross Ohrenshal had two hits each for the winners.

The tourney continues tonight at Doyle Park with two games — Sonoma vs. Novato National at 5:30 and Southern Marin National vs. San Anselmo at 8:30. Five games will be played tomorrow in the double elimination tournament.

BRITISH OPEN

Player Staggers But Retains Lead

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (UPI) — South African Gary Player blew three strokes on the first 10 holes today but then recovered his composure and shot a 75 to lead the British Open Golf championship by three strokes with a 54-hole total of 212.

Player, who hardly made a mistake through the first 36 holes, which he covered in a five under par 137, got the elbow just as he came to the turn. He made a double bogey and then started home with a bogey to stand two under par before losing another stroke at the 15th.

His countryman, Bobby Cole, had shot four birdies against two birdies on the first 10 to tie Player at two under after 46 holes, but then he lost six strokes in the next four holes by going bogey, double bogey, bogey, double bogey.

Nicklaus had an eagle and four birdies against a double bogey and three bogeys in his roundover the 6,822-yard, par 71, course, which again withstood the challenge of the best field ever assembled for the open.

Napa's Ron Cerrudo, who had an opening day 74 and a 79 yesterday, ballooned to an 81 in the third round.

Cole made birdies at the first, fifth and sixth holes against bogeys at the third and fourth, while Oosterhuis birdied Nos. 1 and 7 and bogeyed four and five.

Jack Nicklaus, nine strokes off the pace at the start of the day, made up three strokes on Player and turned in a three under 32. He bogeyed the fourth, then went birdie, birdie, eagle as he launched one of his patented charges.

Defending champion Tom Weiskopf was two over through 45, as was Lu Liang-Huan of Taiwan and Briton John Morgan.

Danny Edwards and Johnny Miller turned three over, while Hubie Green was four over through 54 holes.

The sun was out and there was little wind when tournament leader Player of South Africa came in from the practice tee. Conditions were ideal for low scoring after two days of high winds.

British Ryder Cup player Peter Townsend came closest to matching par among the early finishers over Royal Lytham's 6,822-yard, par 71, links when he returned a 72.

Gay Brewer returned a 74-229 to be the first of the PGA tour regulars in the clubhouse. He was followed by John Mahaffey, 75-230; Ben Crenshaw, 76-230, and Miller Barber, 79-234.

Player, the only man in the field to break par with a five under 137, refused to talk in terms of his third victory even though his lead was the biggest for 40 years at 36 holes.

Suburban Auto In Tourney Loss

Conner-Coulter of Fairfield blanked Suburban Auto of San Rafael, 2-0, and California Kings of Santa Clara County edged the Tri-County Merchants of San Juan Bautiste, 7-6, last night in opening round games of the third annual San Rafael Fastpitch softball tourney at Albert Park.

Conner-Coulter pitcher John Waller pitched a five-hitter against Suburban while losing pitcher Bob Edgar allowed just one hit but was betrayed by six Suburban errors.

In the second game, Lou Alicea of the Kings hit a home run to aid winning pitcher Ollie Mally. The Kings outhit their foes, 105.

The tourney continues tonight starting at 7:30.

Aaron To Break Another Record

Going into this weekend's series at St. Louis, the Atlanta Braves outfielder had appeared in 3,029 major league games — four shy of Ty Cobb's record.

Aaron figures to play in at least two games at St. Louis and to surpass Cobb either Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

Hunting Seasons Rolling Around

I'll bet you didn't realize that the archery buck season is here! Don Poole, a member of the Northwoods Bowman's Club turned up the other day with the first buck that I'd heard about this season. Using a bow and arrow, Don got his buck up near Hopland in Sonoma County making a 50-yard shot. The buck, a forked-horn, was estimated to weigh 130 pounds. I also heard of two bucks taken in the Novato area, but I have no particulars at this time.

Last week, Martin Andreas of Woodacre came by the house telling me his woes while unsuccessfully trying to catch a striped bass. He's a College of Marin student and had spent about $12.50 for bass lures after reading last week's columns on how the bass were biting.

I let him finish his story, then gave him a striper I had cornered in the refrigerator. He was elated. He then, on his own, promised to bring me the liver of the deer he was going to get last Saturday (the first day of the archery season).

I haven't seen him since! The confidence of these kids sometimes overwhelms me. Getting a buck with a bow is really a pretty tough proposition. Only two were logged in last year for Marin County.

SAM CRAWFORD, the jolly one, and Louis Servente came into the Loch Lomond Harbor with a sturgeon that weighed 120 pounds a few days ago. Sam, never one to miss an opportunity, tried to negotiate it into the bass derby, but no dice according to the derby fish checkers.

Good stories about that fish too! For one thing, its stomach contained a three-pound striper! Also Servente's rod was supposedly made in 1851, and the reel still had the first monofilament line ever made still intact on the reel! Whoever caught that fish landed it up near Rat Island above China Camp using grass shrimp. And the reason they tried to slip it into the derby was that Larry Brunetti was on duty that day at the bait barge. Larry has never caught a bass or sturgeon in his life, so the boys thought he might not know the difference.

Now I've been at the barge many times, and I've seen Larry giving fishing advice while selling bait like crazy around there. I thought he was an old pro until I just found out differently today. I questioned him about the authenticity of some of the reports and advice that he hands out. Would you believe it? He says Keith Fraser always gives him little notes to study before he goes on duty giving the latest fish facts which he then readily passes on to you and me. No wonder I've been in a slump for months!

Incidentally, I'm out of the slump, and I now am in third place this week in the derby with a 25.8-pound fish. Cliff Aufinson still leads with his 35-pounder taken at Seal Rocks outside the Gate, and Sil Laron is in second place with a 34.6-pounder taken at Alcatraz.

ALL OF the fish in the derby are over 20 pounds now with a 20.8-pounder in 10th place. So far this week, not a fish has been entered for the weekly prize. Log anything you get — it might win.

I caught my fish July 4 at Mile Rock. I left the house at 2:30 a.m. in company of Bob Wilson of Woodacre. We were fishing by 4:30. Dark, foggy and spooky out there at that ungodly hour. Outside the Gate it is legal to fish at night, but you have to be out of your mind. That's about what it takes.

With the hunting seasons beginning to roll around, it is well to remember that safety should be the prime consideration of every hunter. Last year, 72,458 persons seeking a hunting license completed the Hunter-Safety required training program.

The accident rate for hunters in 1973 was 1.29 accidents per 10,000 hunters. Hunter casualties totaled 87 in 1973; this is below the preceding 18-year average of approximately 98.2 yearly casualties.

There were 10 fatalities for 1973. Deer hunters led in hunting casualties with 25. Pheasant hunters had 18.

Quad Cities Golf Lead To Eastwood

BETTENDORF, Iowa (UPI) — Bob Eastwood says he's overcome his first round problems and is now ready to challenge for his first victory in three years of competition on the Professional Golfers' Association tour.

Eastwood, 28, fired a five under par 66 to take a one-stroke lead entering today's second round of the $100,000 Quad Cities Open here.

The Providence, R.I., native has won only $9,000 this year and says poor starts have been preventing him from being in the money in previous tournaments.

"I've always done well in the middle rounds, but that's after I've had to recover from the 74s and 75s on the first round," said Eastwood, whose best finish ever was a tie for fifth in this year's Sahara Open. "I can't explain why it's hard for me to get going, but everything seemed to go right for me at the first round here."

Hawaiian Youth Tied For Lead In Publinx

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Overcoming four bogeys with five birdies, young Charles Barenada of Hawaii caught up with Spencer Sappington Thursday to tie for the lead after two rounds of the USGA Amateur Public Links golf tournament.

Barenada, 20, of Laie, Hawaii, fired a one-under-par 71 to go with his first round 70 and give him a share of the lead.

Sappington, a salesman from St. Louis, couldn't match his first round of 68 at Brookside Golf Course. With bogeys on all three of the course's tricky par-threes, Sappington had a one-over 73 and was also at 141, three under par after two rounds.

The field will be trimmed to the top 63 scorers for today's third round. The cutoff point was 154, 10 strokes over par.

Frank Mazion of San Francisco had a 71 for a two-day total of 143 and third place. Gen Parr of Richfield, Minn., was in fourth at even-par at 144 after a second round of 71. Barenada, Sappington, Mazion and Parr were the only four golfers to break or equal par.

In fifth place at 74-71--145 was Mack Christiansen of Salt Lake City, while Art Diaz, Phoenix, Ariz., was in sixth at 74-72--146.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Lee Four-Hits Rangers As Boston Romps, 12-3

BOSTON (UPI) — The Spaceman has gotten his feet back on the ground and the Boston Red Sox are once again looking like pennant contenders.

Bill Lee of Terra Linda — the Spaceman — planted those feet firmly in the dirt of the pitcher's mound Thursday and threw rockets all day long as the Red Sox won their third game in a row, defeating the Texas Rangers, 12-3.

Lee gave up only four hits and a walk in running his record to 10-7, but more significantly, became the fifth Red Sox pitcher in a row to go the distance.

"I know one thing," said Lee, "I have lousy form. The way I pitch, everything should be up and away. I can't believe I get my pitches down.

"I must have a great arm," he said, "it makes up for my body."

Lee, who has been hit hard and often in his last several outings, gave up only one hit over the first four innings, before Toby Harrah hit his 13th homer of the year in the fifth.

"He was looking for a ball over the plate — and he got it. He's a good little hitter," Lee said.

The New York Yankees were eight and a half games behind a little more than a week ago. But Thursday night when they beat Kansas City 2-1, it was their seventh victory in eight games and left them just five games out of first.

Bobby Murcer drove in one run and scored the other in the first inning at Kansas City and George Medich made those two runs stand up on a seven-hitter. The second-year righthander allowed only three hits after pitching out of a second inning jam to win his 10th game.

Minnesota beat Cleveland 5-2, and Chicago edged Baltimore 4-3. In other American League games Thursday, Cincinnati defeated Chicago 4-3 in 10 innings in the only NL game.

Twins 5 Indians 2

A two-run double by Larry Hisle capped a four-run seventh inning by the Twins, who won their fifth straight game. Eric Soderholm walked to open the inning, Jim Holt was safe on a fielder's choice and Luis Gomez walked to load the bases before a single by Rod Carew sent home the first run. Steve Braun then singled home another run before Hisle doubled off the left-center field wall.

White Sox 4 Orioles 3

The White Sox, whose manager, Chuck Tanner, received a two-year extension of his contract to 1978 before the game, rallied from a 3-0 deficit. Brian Downing homered for the first run in the fifth, Bill Melton singled home one run and another scored on an error in the eighth, and Downing scored the winner in the ninth on a wild pitch by Grant Jackson.

Reds 4 Cubs 3

Dean Said Doing Well After Hospitalization

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (UPI) — Baseball great Dizzy Dean, the last National League 30-game winner, was reported "doing well" today at Barton Memorial Hospital.

A hospital nursing supervisor would only confirm that Dean, 64, was in the hospital and was "doing well."

Dr. Charles Crist said Dean was taken to the hospital for observation and would not confirm reports he had suffered a heart attack.

Dean compiled a 150-83 lifetime record in 12 years in the majors and now lives in Wiggins, Miss.

More Baseball

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago White Sox Manager Chuck Tanner Thursday was given a two-year extension of his contract through the 1978 season.

Tanner accepted the extension in a dressing room meeting with the club's owner, John Allyn, and General Manager Rollie Hemond before the game here against the Baltimore Orioles.

There was no announcement that Tanner received a raise.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Frankie Duarte remained undefeated Thursday night by knocking out Rufino Hernandez of Mexico City in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bantamweight bout.

Golf

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Sue Roberts, who won her first LPGA tour championship last weekend, will be among the 82 golfers teeing off today in the $40,000 Borden's Classic at the Riveria Country Club.

The 25-year-old Miss Roberts, who wants to win in front of the hometown folks, knows it's going to be hard.

Among those bidding for the $6,000 first prize is all-time leading money-winner Kathy Whitworth, who has won two previous LPGA events here, and this year's leading money-winner JoAnne Carner.

Soccer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The 8,000 who paid to see the World Cup final soccer match in the Cow Palace last Sunday may get to see the whole contest yet.

The final 12 ½ minutes were dimmed to almost invisibility, but the promoters said Thursday that the game will be reshown in its entirety at no charge for stub holders July 28.

Tennis

BURLINGAME, Calif. (UPI) — Five seeded players fell in the National Junior Tennis Championships Thursday, headed by fifth rated Tom Kreiss of Los Angeles in the boys 18.

He lost to Francisco Gonzales of Puerto Rico 7-6, 6-4, who then was defeated by Mike Newberry of La Jolla, Calif., 4-6, 6-4, 7-6.

Gene Mayer, a Stanford soph who was seventh rated in boys 18; Craig Campbell of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., seventh seed in boys 16; Cindy Brinker of Dallas, seventh-ranked in girls 18; and Barbara Hallquist of Arcadia, eighth rated in girls 18, also lost.

Rutherford Injured-No Yellow Flag

"There were no yellow caution flags to indicate an accident," stormed Elliott Forbes-Robinson after climbing out of his disabled Jorgensen Eagle that was struck by pieces of Rutherford's Lola.

The 36-year-old Rutherford of Fort Worth was immediately taken to Schuyler Hospital in nearby Montour Falls, where Dr. Robert Siliciano, an orthopedic surgeon decided an operation wasn't necessary and put the injured leg in a knee-high cast.

Suyderhoud To Compete At Callaway Gardens

ATLANTA (UPI) — Petaluma's Mike Suyderhoud, who won the men's division for the first time last year, will be in the field for the annual Masters water ski tournament this weekend at Callaway Gardens.

The Gardens, located at Pine Mountain, Ga., about 100 miles southwest of Atlanta, are owned by the family of U.S. Secretary of the Army Howard Callaway.

Liz Allan Shetter, the Floridian who has won the women's division in each of the seven years in which she has competed in the Masters, is back again.

Curry's Theory Sounds Naive

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bill Curry, the Houston Oiler center who also is president of the National Football League Players Association, sounds a bit naive.

Curry contends that even if players are allowed to sign each year with whichever club makes them the best offer, that the club owners would work among themselves to keep balance in the NFL.

Curry's theory is that no owner, no matter how much money he might have, would risk destroying the league by buying up all the top players.

Anthony Boosts Earnings Lead

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., boosted his lead in the money earnings list of the Professional Bowlers Association by $5,000 with his victory this week in the Fresno Open.

In second place is Larry Laub of Santa Rosa, Calif., whose $1,700 in Fresno gave him $55,810 for the year. Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., is third with $50,890.
